MAYOR PROPOSES TAX REDUCTION

In Spite of Highest Fixed Charges in History of City, He Urges That Cut Be Made for 1924

GIVES FEATURES OF PRESENT YEAR

Chief Magistrate Points to Fact That Year Will Likely Close Without Bank Overdraft—More Taxes In

IN spite of the fact that next year Victoria will have the highest fixed charges in her history to meet, Mayor Reginald Hayward is prepared to advocate to the next council, if he is returned to office, a reduction in taxation for 1924.

This fact is made known in a statement issued by His Worship to the Colonist yesterday, in which he reviewed the present year and referred to the policy he would urge for the coming year.

It is the Mayor's plan to have the 1924 council decide on a reduction in taxes below this year and set the amount of money which it intends to raise in accordance with such a policy. He would then have the expenditure estimates drafted to fit within this fixed sum.

The features of the present year at the City Hall, as given in the Mayor's review, are:

1. The practicing of rigid economy and the close watching of expenditures.
2. Big cuts in assessments.
3. Increase in the tax rate owing to unavoidable conditions.
4. The closing of the year without any overdraft at the bank.
5. The advantageous investment of sinking funds.
6. The increase in the total of tax collections this year compared with 1922.
7. The reduction of the tax sale list as compared with last year.
8. The reduction in land reversions as compared with last year.

The statement of the Mayor is as follows:

LIQUOR QUESTION BECOMES INVOLVED

PROBABILITY OF PLEBISCITE BEFORE PEOPLE

Rumor States That Voters of Province Must Take Responsibility of Decision Next Year

Strong possibilities exist that the people of British Columbia will be given opportunity to restate their wishes in connection with the liquor question next year, according to rumors which have been circulating around the Parliament Buildings since the opening of the present session of the Legislature.

No definite statement has been forthcoming, however, as to just what form the opportunity will take, but it is believed there are three principal questions to be decided. One is government control, another is prohibition, and the third relates to the proposal to sell beer by the glass as at extension of the government control system.

Rumor has also interjected the old principal of local option into the liquor question arena, and it is not without strong advocates both within the House and without.

It has been stated with a fair degree of definiteness that no matter what terms or clauses are incorporated in a plebiscite to be put before the people, the government has no intention of adopting the Quebec system of government control, and that if the people sanction the sale of beer by the glass, such sale will be carried out on a much more closely controlled scale than that existing in Quebec Province.

In the meantime it is understood that war is to be declared on the beer clubs of the Province, and that every effort will be made to secure their elimination.

Police Find Wanted Forger Fatally Shot

JUNEAU, Nov. 17.—Harry Taggart, 24, former employee of the Standard Oil Company, was found unconscious in an automobile here yesterday with bullet wounds in his head and chest, and died after a short time.

On regaining consciousness today, he told the police that he was shot by Peter Nelson, whom the authorities have been unable to locate. It was thought by the police here that Taggart shot himself after he learned the authorities were searching for him with warrants charging forgery of alleged cheques here. Persons claiming that Taggart's wounds would be fatal.

Taggart came to Alaska last April, after leaving his former place of employment in the mines at Burnet, Wash., according to the police.

GERMANS ARE BIG BUYERS OF LUXURIES NOW

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—French wines, French perfumes and French food supplies of various sorts came back into the German market with a rush immediately after the announcement of Chancellor Stresemann that the passive resistance in the Ruhr was at an end. Bills of lading in prominent cafes and restaurants again are being written in French, and all the signs declaring French and Belgian wines are not being removed.

Most of the larger German hotels and cafes had extensive cellars filled with French wines. Much of this has been sold as Italian or Spanish wine during the passive resistance period, but the Spanish and Italian labels have now been replaced by French labels, and customers who have been clamoring for French wine are happier.

RECALLS AMERICA'S SHIPPING FIASCO

LLOYD GEORGE JOCOSELY REFERS TO U.S. PROTECTION

Ex-Premier Criticizes Conservative Tariff Proposals and Calls Attention to America's Fate

NORTHAMPTON, Nov. 17.—Former Premier Lloyd George, in a political speech before a large audience here today, condemned the protection policy of the Conservatives as not being a remedy for unemployment. The real reason for the lack of employment, he said, was the impoverishment of Great Britain's customers in consequence of the war, and the first thing to do to remedy the situation was to put these customers again in a position to buy.

"At this moment," he declared, "it is a settlement in Europe you want. You want protection not against French mills, but against French militarists."

Another point in Lloyd George's speech was that as long as the United States remained a protectionist country, Britain's shipping would "ruin the wave trade."

"Free trade enabled us to build up the wealth out of which we lent ourselves millions of pounds and placed us in the position of being able to repay the United States while the other protectionist countries could not pay us," he said.

"The protectionists will come out of the fiery furnace not unscathed but cremated."

"The French never went to the Ruhr Valley until the advent of the apostrophe of tranquility (referring to the platform of the late Bonar Law Government)."

"M. Poincaré's speeches are never very pleasant; he gives the poor English baby a sulphuric acid bath every week-end just to keep it clean and bright. How can the poor brat get on? When Poincaré came into office we were on the point of settling with Germany with the full assent of all the Allies. All we could do was to catch him by the coat tails and prevent him from rushing himself into further mischief."

CHRISTMAS RUSH WILL SOON BEGIN

Postmaster Bishop Advises Public to Get Letters and Parcels for Overseas Dispatched in Good Time—Anticipates Heavier Business This Year Than Last at Local Office—Mailing Times Given—Insurance Advised

ONE of the first problems in connection with the Christmas season is the getting away of Christmas letters and parcels. Already the local postoffice is experiencing a little hint of the forthcoming rush, and with the anticipation of heavier than usual traffic this season even now Postmaster Bishop is making preparations for the handling of the extra mail.

The forwarding of letters and packages ready as early as possible so that delays incident to the rush of the last two or three weeks will not interfere with their reaching their destinations in time for Christmas is not a bit too early. Only five weeks remain until Christmas, and for many people to whom Victoria people will wish to send mail this is not too much time to allow for the transmission of parcels and cards. Mr. Bishop has given The Colonist a detailed statement showing when mails for overseas countries should be posted so as to reach their destinations before December 24:

Letters
United Kingdom, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Australia and New Zealand, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Hong Kong, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Japan, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.

Parcels
United Kingdom, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Australia and New Zealand, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Hong Kong, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Japan, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.

Mailings for Europe should be posted a few days earlier than for Great Britain.

Under new regulations, effective November 15, parcels for Great Britain and Ulster, including the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry and Tyrone, can be insured at the following rates:

Twenty cents for value up to $50.

Thirty cents for value up to $100.

The postage rates are twenty cents for the first pound and sixteen cents for each additional pound up to a maximum of eleven pounds. The public is advised to take advantage of the insurance system, particularly if parcels are of any value. Letters and small parcels can, of course, be registered for the small fee of ten cents (additional to the postage). There is a little implied commentary on the fact that parcels for the Irish Free State cannot for the present be insured.

For United States

Parcels for the United States can now be insured for the same rates as those in force for parcels mailed for delivery in Canada, viz:

Three cents up to value of $5.

Five cents up to value of $10.

Twelve cents up to value of $50.

Thirty cents up to value of $100.

The postoffice authorities, whenever asked for advice on this subject, frankly state that they recommend the insuring of parcels as, while the parcel post is safe in the general course of events, losses due to various causes occasionally occur. For example, in the beginning of October a carload of mail was destroyed by fire in Seattle; the year ago in mailcar fires at Hope, B.C., and Vernon, B.C., large consignments of Victoria parcels were destroyed. These are only single instances of what can occasionally happen to parcel posts; with insurance, such mail would be protected and compensation allowed in case of loss.

There are still, apparently, people who do not know the letter rates to different parts of the Empire. For their information, it is stated here that the letter postage rate is four cents for the first ounce and three cents for each succeeding ounce in the case of letters for Great Britain or any part of the Empire (including Newfoundland). For foreign countries generally the rate is ten cents for the first ounce and five cents for each succeeding ounce.

Obligations were before us and had to be met. Higher taxes are naturally unpopular, but the 1923 Council fearlessly shouldered their responsibilities and levied a tax estimated to cover all requirements, in an honest endeavor to carry out a "pay as you go" policy. The unbiased taxpayer will realize that this was in the best interests of the city and will appreciate this fact, although it might have been far more popular to under-levy with the inevitable result of a handsome overdraft at the bank to be provided for the following year.

Tax Collections

Figures of the 1923 tax collections are not yet complete. To date, however, over 81 per cent of the levy has been paid into the treasury, but the full percentage for the year cannot be ascertained until the end of December, as payments are still being received daily. The amount of general taxes collected in 1923 was $1,341,460, while to date for 1923 the collections amount to $1,490,570, an increase of $128,810.

Overdrafts

There is already a $555,000 overdraft at the bank, an accumulation of past years, but this will be taken care of by a bond issue, authorized by the taxpayers earlier in the year, and which is now before the local Legislature for sanction. Thus the repayment of this amount will be spread over a period of ten years, instead of possibly two, as would have been the case had not this loan been authorized. If this method of paying off the bank had not been resorted to, the overdraft of $555,000 would have had to be added to this year's levy, as this repayment on account of overdraft had to be guaranteed to be paid to the bank this year, before they would grant the city the usual annual loan.

Present Indications

Present indications are, that with continued careful watching of expenditures until the end of the year, this year's administration will close its work without owing the bank one dollar.

Investments

During the year the Council invested in gilt edge securities $34,333.50 for the purpose of sinking fund payments, which were paid to the fund from 1923 tax collections, yielding 5.493 per cent, which is a much higher percentage of interest than the 4 per cent allowed by the bank, which is good business from the city's standpoint.

The Council, also from its sinking funds, bought in at favorable terms 28 parcels of city debentures, the face value of which was $59,832.77, for which was paid $74,891.23, therefore effecting a saving for the city of $15,058.46.

Reverted Lands

The amount of assessed value of land reverting to the city in 1923 amounted to $454,235, as compared with $1,212,440 last year, which is a reduction of $758,205.

Assessments

Owing to the fact that in 1924, tax collections will be made in ten monthly installments instead of in one payment—unless the request of the Council to the Legislature to continue our present system is granted—two revisions of the assessment roll became necessary, and in February a cut of $2,599,670 in assessed values was made for 1924, and at the Fall sitting of the Council of Revision, practically complete, a further reduction of about $3,301,510 was made for 1924, thus showing the desire of the Council to get down to the proper value of land and improvements as possible. Some values are still too high but no doubt the Council of Revision sitting in 1924 will follow the example of the 1923 Council and make still further reductions. From an assessment value on land in 1914 of $49,151,930, reductions have been made until land values now stand at approximately $21,000,000, which is a reduction of over 56 per cent. Practically an entire new assessment of the city was made in 1923.

Taxes

In order to meet the city's requirements for debt and general expenditures, the Council was faced with the necessity of increasing the tax rate, caused chiefly by the reduced number of taxpayers and a considerable decrease of estimated general revenue amounting to $209,762.41. The reduction of $758,205.

Assessments

Owing to the fact that in 1924, tax collections will be made in ten monthly installments instead of in one payment—unless the request of the Council to the Legislature to continue our present system is granted—two revisions of the assessment roll became necessary, and in February a cut of $2,599,670 in assessed values was made for 1924, and at the Fall sitting of the Council of Revision, practically complete, a further reduction of about $3,301,510 was made for 1924, thus showing the desire of the Council to get down to the proper value of land and improvements as possible. Some values are still too high but no doubt the Council of Revision sitting in 1924 will follow the example of the 1923 Council and make still further reductions. From an assessment value on land in 1914 of $49,151,930, reductions have been made until land values now stand at approximately $21,000,000, which is a reduction of over 56 per cent. Practically an entire new assessment of the city was made in 1923.

Taxes

In order to meet the city's requirements for debt and general expenditures, the Council was faced with the necessity of increasing the tax rate, caused chiefly by the reduced number of taxpayers and a considerable decrease of estimated general revenue amounting to $209,762.41. The reduction in assessed value of land reverting to the city in 1923 amounted to $454,235, as compared with $1,212,440 last year, which is a reduction of $758,205.

DOMINION PLUMBING

WON WIDE FAME AS A ROSE EXPERT

THROUGH the death of Mr. James Simpson, horticulturist, 611 Superior Street, on November 11, the Province loses one of the greatest authorities on horticultural matters. Starting an apprenticeship at an early age, he became a thorough knowledge of the propagation of every class of plant from seedling forest trees to fruit trees and roses to the finest plants grown in greenhouses.

On leaving this establishment he entered the Royal Botanical Gardens, Edinburgh, as a student for two years, where he gained considerable experience in the growing of orchids and other tropical plants. While studying at this institution he made a herbarium of the flora of Scotland, which was afterwards used by the University of Edinburgh, and is now at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Sidney. Mr. Simpson afterwards became a partner in the firm of D. & W. Croft, nurserymen, Dun-doon, where he specialized in rose growing, gaining many successes as an exhibitor at all the leading exhibitions in Great Britain. Notable among these was the winning of the challenge cup for roses open to Great Britain, at Sheffield in 1906.

Mr. Simpson's advice was always in demand in the laying out of large gardens, and he has supplied many thousands of trees to many of them, including the Earl of Marnoch at Scone Palace, the Duke of Atholl at Dunkeld, the Earl of Argyll, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and a great many others. Mr. Simpson has taken a great deal of interest in horticultural matters in this Province, and believed in intensive culture of the land, his advice being much sought after on many occasions on matters pertaining to the beautifying of grounds in Victoria and other cities of British Columbia.

Mr. Simpson was a great authority on roses, and introduced several varieties to the Province, including Madame Edward Herriot, Mrs.

THE LATE JAMES SIMPSON

James Quinn, Columbia, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie and other less well-known varieties. Mr. R. Simpson, superintendent of the Demonstration Farm and Provincial Government Nursery at Oliver, B. C., is the only one of the late Mr. James Simpson's sons who is following his father's occupation. The late Mr. Simpson was noted as an authority on the raising of forest trees, and in this connection and generally on forest matters he was appointed one of the members of the Scottish commission which traveled to Germany and Sweden on several occasions to study forestry conditions. As a rose grower and exhibitor he gained numerous successes in exhibitions, and had an enviable collection of trophies and medals which he had won in this way in competitions entered by the leading growers of Britain.

OBITUARIES

JEEVES—Service over the remains of the late Mrs. Ada Jane (Dolly) Jeeves will be held on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at her late residence, 715 Prince Avenue. Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will officiate and interment will be made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

MCLELLAN—The remains of the late Mrs. Elizabeth McLellan are resting at the B. C. Funeral Chapel, whence the funeral will take place on Monday morning, at 1:45, proceeding to St. Andrew's Cathedral, where Mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

LOUNG—The death occurred in this city, Friday morning, of Joe Show Loung, aged 33 years. He was born in Canton, China, and had lately resided in Vancouver, B.C. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the B. C. Funeral Home. Interment was made in the Chinese Cemetery.

SHELTON—The remains of the late Beth Shelton, who passed away at the family residence, Delhi Hotel, 617 Yates Street, on Wednesday evening, were laid to rest at Ross Bay Cemetery yesterday afternoon. The remains were removed from the Thomson Funeral Home, 1515 Quadra Street, at 1:30 o'clock, to the Victoria Hall, Blanshard Street, where a very impressive service was conducted by Mr. Hamilton. The hymns sung were "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" and "Heaven is My Home." There was a very large attendance of sympathizing friends present and a fusion of beautiful floral designs covered the casket and hearse, showing the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Shelton was held by her many friends. At the open grave the hymn sung was "Sleep On, Beloved." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. James Hamilton, John Lefevre, Alexander Scroggie, G. McIntosh, D. Donaldson and W. Petticrew. Mr. Peter Smart assisted with the service at the graveside.

RADLER—The funeral of the late John William Radler, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital last Thursday, took place yesterday afternoon, the cortege leaving the Hands Funeral Chapel at 2 o'clock, and at 3 o'clock services were conducted at St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, by Rev. William Carroll, and the remains were laid to rest at St. Luke's Cemetery, Cedar Hill. Relatives and many friends were present and the floral tributes were many and beautiful. The hymns sung were "My God, My Father, While I Strive," and "On the Resurrection Morn." Messrs. W. J. Williamson, R. Holmes, W. T. Edwards, R. S. Twining, T. Clifton and Reeve G. Watson were the pallbearers.

CULLUM—The death occurred yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital of Walter Cullum, aged 26 years. The deceased was born in Duluth, Minn., and came to Victoria with his parents sixteen years ago. He has lived at Gordon Head for the past five years. The deceased leaves to mourn his loss, besides his mother, his stepfather, three sisters and two brothers. He was for some time employed at the Royal Bank of Canada. The

Was Constipated For Several Years

If you have suffered from constipation for years, tried all kinds of remedies without getting relief, if you have been subject to all the miseries associated with constipation, wouldn't you consider it a blessing to be able to keep the bowels regular in good healthy condition and prevent disease getting a foothold on your system?

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are indicated just for this purpose: their regular use relieving the worst cases of constipation. Mr. H. Hedican, Sudbury, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation for several years. I began to use Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills and find them to be the best remedy I have ever used for regulating the bowels and liver. I always keep them now and recommend them highly." Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are 25¢ a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. (Adv.)

Those Who Come and Go

With Her Forty-two-Pound Turkey.
There is never any doubt about there being enough turkey to go round at Thanksgiving or Christmas, up at Deerholme, in the Cowichan Valley.

The turkeys grow to an enormous size there, if the forty-two-pound bird shown in the picture with little Miss Christina Nassick, 3016 Admiration Road, is to be taken as a fair sample. The photograph was taken while Christina was visiting her grandfather on his Deerholme farm a few days ago.

AREA AT GORGE TO BE BIRD SANCTUARY

Federal Government Names Area to North of Gorge Bridge as Sanctuary for Birds

That a bird sanctuary will be established on Portage Inlet by the Federal Government was the announcement made by Mr. Frank Waring, chairman of the Tourist Trade Group, at a luncheon held by that body on Friday at the Chamber of Commerce. The Government's decision comes as a result of the campaign inaugurated by the group over a year ago when it learned that shooting was prohibited in the area extending north of the Gorge Bridge. It was pointed out at the luncheon that not only will bird life be protected in the sanctuary but also that tourists would find it an added attraction to the city.

It was resolved by the members to hold weekly entertainments this winter for visitors in accordance with the plan followed last year, providing that the Chamber of Commerce auditorium is available.

On the suggestion of Mr. Butterfield, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be asked to permit the attendance of visitors at any group meetings of the chamber in which they might be interested.

Mr. W. H. Dawes, secretary of the Sidney Board of Trade, thanked the members for their co-operation during the summer. Speaking of the Sidney Auto Camp, he stated that 600 parties had used it during the past season, and that in future was planned to impose a small fee on visiting motorists.

Amputation Association—A special meeting of the Amputation Association will be held in the club quarters on Tuesday at 8 p.m. to consider steps to be taken with regard to pensions question. It is urgently requested that every member attend this meeting.

Another Unsolicited Tribute to the Great "KNABE" Piano

For years it has been so, and now more particularly so, that the name of great artists are so frequently associated with a "Knabe" Piano, be it Grand or Upright.

About a "Knabe" there is something almost indescribably beautiful. The world's most severe critics acclaim it a "Masterpiece of Piano Construction." Vocalists and instrumentalists, far and wide, applaud it.

Misses Joy and Una Calvert (who gave a delightful recital last Wednesday under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club) amply demonstrated the wonderful velvety tone quality of the "Knabe" Grand furnished by us

Gratifying indeed was it to hear the various pleasant and graceful comments passed upon the superb tone of the "Knabe" by many in the audience—it was a REVELATION TO THEM.

With Christmas near at hand, why not talk over with us the possibility of your purchasing a "Knabe," "Willis" or "Chickering" piano or an "Ampico," which are obtainable on Vancouver Island only from us?

Remember—We sell Pianos, Player-Pianos and the "Ampico" exclusively; therefore it is not logical that we offer the very best values? Our terms are most reasonable.

There will also be a mass meeting in the recreation room, at which all members are requested to be present to make special efforts to attend.Rifle Body Meeting—There will be a meeting of the Victoria Rifle Association in the men's recreation room of the 5th Regiment, C.F.A., at the Drill Hall, on Tuesday night, commencing at 8:15 o'clock. Colonel J. R. Birdwhistle, of the D.C.R.A., Ottawa, will be present. All those interested in rifle shooting are invited to attend.West End W.C.T.U.—The regular meeting of the West End W.C.T.U. was held on Thursday afternoon last in the parlor of Wesley Church. After the routine business was completed, a sale of home cooking was held, and afternoon tea served. Musical selections were rendered by the Misses Joyce Rees and Florence Collins.Will Address Gyron—Sir Richard Lake will discuss some phases of the League of Nations at the regular weekly luncheon of the Gyro Club of Victoria, which will take place tomorrow, at 12:30 p.m., in the private dining-room of the Hudson's Bay Company. Mrs. William Wright will render vocal numbers, and selections will be rendered by the Gyro orchestra under the leadership of Gyro Chris Wade.Pictures of City on Tour—Six large colored photographs of scenes in and about Victoria will be placed on exhibition at all the principal C. P. R. stations from Winnipeg to Calgary for periods varying from ten to five days, according to advice received by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. After they have been displayed at Calgary, the pictures will be sent to Montreal, whence they will start on a tour of the eastern lines of the railway.To Conduct Service—Rev. J. Smith Patterson will conduct divine service and preach in the Reformed Episcopal Church at 11 a.m. today. The sermon will be in support of the claims of the Bible Society. Rev. A. de B. Owen will occupy the pulpit of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Henry Street, Victoria West, at 11 a.m. and preach in the interests of the Bible Society. At 7:30 p.m., the Rev. J. B. Patterson will preach in his own pulpit at St. Paul's.Students' Day—The Universal Day of Prayer for Students will be observed in many churches today. Urgent request for the observance of the day in behalf of the needs of students has been sent by the leaders of the Student Christian Movement of Canada. The day is similarly regarded by many national student associations affiliated with the World Student Christian Federation. Intercession is requested for students in colleges and universities, and particularly for students in the war-stricken countries of Europe.Canadian Scottish—The 14th Canadian Scottish Battalion, under command of Lieut.-Col. H. M. Urquhart, D.S.O., M.C., A.D.C., will parade at the Armory on Tuesday night, at 8:15 o'clock. Dress will be drill order without rifles. Nos. 1 and 3 Companies will hold their monthly dance in the men's recreation room, 1401 Hall, tomorrow night, commencing at 8:30 o'clock. Shell jackets will be worn. All officers issued with tickets for the Armistice Ball will return the unused tickets, together with moneys received for tickets sold, at Tuesday night's parade.Beekeepers Meet—The Vancouver Island Beekeepers held a meeting on Friday evening in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium. A most interesting series of lantern views showing the anatomy of the honey-bee was exhibited, and an explanation given as the views were thrown on the screen by Mr. Shephard, Provincial Apiarist. Reference was made to the division in the ranks of the Provincial beekeepers with the existence of two bodies, the Beekeepers' Association and the Honey Producers' Association. The question of affiliation with one of these was taken up, and finally it was moved that the local body should not affiliate with either of these bodies for twelve months. An amendment that the period be struck out so that the organization simply decide to affiliate with neither for the present was moved and carried.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

Single Point Gives Victory to J.B.A.A.

Oak Bay Wanderers Knocked Out of Cowichan Trophy Rugby Series by Four Points to Three—Angie McInnes Drops Neat Goal—Money Scores Only Try of Match in Last Few Minutes

THE J. B. A. A. senior rugby team knocked the Oak Bay Wanderers out of the contest for the Cowichan trophy at the Willows yesterday afternoon by a single point. The Bays won the match by a dropped goal to a try, four points to three.

From a spectator's point of view the game was rather disappointing on account of the fact that, in spite of the ground being in the best possible condition for three-quarter play, and in spite of the fact that each side rather prides itself on its strength behind the scrum, there was very little running and a great deal too much kicking for touch which was unnecessary and unproductive of gains. Of course, there were times when a first-class kick to touch was wanted and the right thing to do and on a number of such occasions it was done. Goodacre of the Wanderers being noticeable in this respect. He punts a fine ball with both length and direction.

Healed Out Men

The Bays' three-quarter backs should have got over several times. No fault could be found with the way they forwards got the ball back to the men behind, but every chance for a good run seemed spoiled by a "premature" kick or a faddy pass.

Up to half-time it looked as though the two teams might play another scoreless draw, as, although the Bays had a little better of the play, they were unable to drive their advantage home, and the Wanderers did not get the opportunities behind the scrum that their opponents were given.

About ten minutes after the interval McInnes put the Bays in the lead with a fine dropped goal, after which things were kept very equal with a deal of kicking and very little running.

WESTS WIN GAME IN FINAL MINUTE

MOOSE GIVE CHAMPIONS HARD STRUGGLE

Interesting Match Results in 3-2 Score—West Gains Two Goals on Penalty Shots

Scoring a goal with a penalty kick in the last minute of the game, the Victoria Wests eleven broke a 2-2 tie and won from the Moose at Beacon Hill after a hard-fought battle.

The champions found themselves up against some tough opposition, and consequently the goodly number of spectators who had come out to witness the contest were rewarded by an interesting exhibition of soccer. The Moose boys scored the only goal of the first half. The Wests evened matters up in the second half, when they scored from a penalty shot; the Moose took the lead again; the Wests caught up with them for the second time; and the game went to the greenish when they were again successful with a penalty kick.

With their lines considerably altered from that which they had in the opening games of the season, the Wests did not evince the superiority of old, but put up a scrappy game with the same pretty "never-say-die" attitude which is a well-known feature of their play. The Moose, on the other hand, also worked hard all the way, showing an aggressive spirit which kept things moving in great style.

Very Even Play

The play of the first half was pretty evenly divided between the two teams, and it was not until half an hour had passed and each goal had been threatened a number of times, that Dunn, the Moose inside left, beat Shandley with a short shot. The two eleven went at it hammer and tongs for the rest of the half without doing a thing to their scoring columns.

The lads in green came to the fore in the second half, and had the Moose on the defensive most of the time. They found the opposition stiff, however, and though they bored in hard, it was not until Muir beat Holmen with a pretty short shot, minutes after the opening whistle of the half that the Wests evened the score. And that shot struck the left-hand post, ricocheting across into the net.

To the immense delight of their supporters, the Moose, who began to get more of the game, went ahead again when Cummins scored with a ground shot. The Wests shut down again on their foe, and for the rest of the game it was pretty much a desperate defense on the part of the Moose, who fought hard to maintain their lead, and then to hold the league leaders to a draw, but the pace told.

Extra the Score

Youson evened the score for the Wests with a snappy shot in front of the goal when about ten minutes of the half remained. The champions continued to batter at the Moose defense, and with only about a minute to go, they were awarded a penalty shot, which Muir again successfully netted, winning the match for the Wests.

Angie McInnes, who took the place of Sid Sherwin, of the Victoria West team, proved a useful lad in the game, and won much favorable comment with the aggressive exhibition he put up. Robbison referred.

The teams were as follows:

Victoria Wests—Shandley; Baker and Stillwell; Popham, Thomas and McIntyre; J. Sherratt, Mulcahy, Youson, Muir and Waddington.

Moose—Holman; Morris and Bray; Kessler, H. Mouton and P. Mouton; Woods, Parke, Cummins, Dunn and Allen.

ring until near the end of the match. The Bays had a good chance to carry the ball across when an offside brought it back for a scrum within a yard or two of the Wanderers' line, but the defence held, and, among others, Hart at fullback for the Wanderers did some excellent work. He even brought off quite a useful run, as well as holding the ball cleanly and kicking accurately.

Fog had settled down fairly thick on the field and it was difficult to follow the play when it was at the opposite side of the field from the spectators. Within a few minutes of the end Money for the Wanderers made a nice rush through and scored. Adams took the kick, making a good but ineffectual attempt to add the points.

Well Balanced

Play was kept fairly well in mid-field for the balance of the game with no very noticeable features to the play.

Munsey did good work on the Bays' back line. Hay never was given a chance to use his speed. McLean showed up well as half-back. Toimie and Brynjolfsson were the pick of the forwards. For the Wanderers, Hart did fine work. Goodacre's kicking was very good and very useful, the forwards all worked hard but were defeated in the scrum. Billie refereed very capably, and the teams were as follows:

J.B.A.A.—Johnson; Totty, Munsey, McInnes and Hay; Bendro; McMillan and McLean; Travis, Toimie, W. Brynjolfsson, Melas, Smith, Norris and Gravin.

Oak Bay Wanderers—Hart; Glimmer, Rhyne, Robertson and Knapton; Adams, Parker and Goodacre; George, Money, Blaw, Christy, Allan, Gregg and Stewart.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL WINS RUGBY MATCH

Oak Bay High School Fifteen Meets Defeat by Fifteen Points to Nothing

In yesterday's rugby game between the University School and Oak Bay High School, Oak Bay took the kick-off and for the first few minutes of the play pressed on University's 25-yard line. Through a free kick the University pushed into the Oak Bay half, and through a series of passes after the time the Varsity nearly went over the line and at last Lord it plunged over for the Varsity's first touch-down. Cabellu failed to convert.

The University again plunged into the Oak Bay half, and Cabellu's drop kick failed by inches and shortly afterwards the half came to an end.

The second half opened with Varsity playing a much finer brand of ball, and through a series of passes the ball went to the High School's 20-yard line and through the good dribbling of Murphy, I. Pate played over for the Varsity's second touch-down. Cabellu failed to convert.

The Oak Bay forward line took a brace and shoved the Varsity to the centre of the field. The Varsity fumbled and Lord it recovered, tore through the opposing forward line and raced 45 yards for a touch-down. The place kick again failed.

The University backs then started a steady march down the field. Cabellu's drop narrowly missed going over. Shortly afterwards the Varsity's half came to an end. Cabellu to go over the line for the University's fourth touch-down.

With three minutes to go the University backs plunged to the Oak Bay 20-yard line. Stevens, who played well throughout the game, then carried the ball over for the fifth try. Varsity's attempt to convert failed. A minute later the game came to an end, with the final score 15-0 in favor of University School.

MILLER CUP RUGBY WON BY VARSITY

VANCOUVER, Nov. 17.—Varsity advanced a step nearer success in the Miller Cup rugby series this afternoon by handing Native Sons a 14 to 6 defeat before a large crowd of fans at Brockton Point.

With good weather conditions prevailing and both teams in excellent condition play was of high calibre and a really good contest was seen. On both sides the work of scrums was clean-cut, and the three pulled off as pretty a series of runs as has been seen this season.

The contest was no walkway at any stage. Varsity having a slight edge in all departments, and this was sufficient to win, but the slightest fluke might have upset the beans.

Jack Sullivan, councillor for Victoria on the board of the B.C.F.A., announced last night that the efforts have been made to get the champion Nanaimo soccer team here for an exhibition game for the Billy Muir fund have at length been successful. It was thought at first that the game might have been arranged for Thanksgiving Day, but this day was

HORNETS WIN

NANAIMO, Nov. 17.—Nanaimo Hornets today defeated the Cowichan rugby team at Duncan, 3 to 6. It was the first game here in the Cowichan Cup series, and the winners will meet the winners of the Victoria City League in the final for the cup.

Bowling Tournament Will Be Opened Today

The city bowling tournament opens today in the Pemberton Alleys, where the U.C.T. meet the Academics. Both teams have new players on their line-up and a close game is expected. On Tuesday the Colonist and the Pressmen clash and another exciting game is looked forward to.

Sidney and James Island are both expected to appear for the tournament and a full schedule will be published later in the week.

VETS PUT SWAMPER AT WORK ON WARDS

LATTER TEAM FORCED TO TAKE FIELD ONE MAN SHORT

Held Warriors to Draw in First Half, But Could Not Stem Combination Attacks in the Last

Handicapped by their inability to field more than ten men, the Vets proved easy victims of the War Veterans yesterday afternoon in a regular league soccer match played at the Athletic Park, the final count being 7 goals to 0.

Wards took the field with only one full-back, Taylor, and he unfortunately was caught in one of his "off" days. He blocked many wicked-looking attempts by the Vets' forward line, but he did not, except on a few occasions, reach the form of which he is capable. Cummins, in goal for the Vets, was not a finished custodian of the posts, demonstrated beyond doubt that he possesses the makings, and with a little looking after, a top-notch. He blocked well and his clearing yesterday was splendid. Nearly all of the Vets' seven goals were of the unsavory variety. Bell and Merrifield turned in fine men in the field for the Vets.

The Vets gave the starting whistle with a few changes in their line-up, including the switch of Clarkson, who played in the Vets' forward line, to the Vets' defense. He performed in brilliant manner in his new position, and the general opinion of supporters of the team was that the offensive line was strengthened considerably by the change. Ord, playing left half, turned in a fine game, just about the best he has delivered in a season. Burton, night full-back, also performed well.

The first half of the game saw the best football. Although playing a man short, the Vets put up the sort of an argument and held the Vets to a draw, two goals each. Both Ward tallies were counted by Merrifield. At the start of the second half, however, the Vets stepped on it, and the Vets were unable to stem their onslaught. Five goals were chased in before the final whistle.

Superior team play on the part of the Vets was principally responsible for their wide-margin victory. In former games in which they have contained this season, an effective system of combined defense, conspicuous by its absence, has been conspicuous by its absence. However, they came on the field with their combination machinery well oiled, and it worked so well that during the opening half the Vets' forwards were able to conserve their energies for the big push in the last session. Their passes were snappy, accurate, and well-timed. If they keep up the good work they are bound to make things hot for the defence brigade of the other teams in the league.

The Line-up

War Veterans—Goal, Leeming; backs, Burton and Davidson; half-backs, Flood, Campbell and Harry Ord; forwards, Clarkson, Roberts, Shillington, Merrifield and Cummings.

Wards—Goal, Cummins; backs, Taylor; half-backs, Bell, Krogan and Waby; forwards, Bell, McGregor, Norton, Houston and Ronson. Referee—Percy Payne.

COLWOOD LADIES WIN MATCH AT UPLANDS

The ladies' team match played at Uplands yesterday afternoon between Uplands Golf Club and Colwood Golf and Country Club was won by Colwood by 5 1/2 points to 2 1/2. The results of the individual matches were as follows:

The match will be played at the Royal Athletic Park, and will be under the jurisdiction of the Lower Island Football Association.

SOLDIERS TRIM NAVY AT RUGBY

GARRISON SCORE 15-3 VICTORY OVER NAVIGATORS

Seafaring Men Do Better When Fog Shuts Down—Ward Makes Brilliant Field Goal

In a friendly game at the Cranmore Road grounds yesterday afternoon the Garrison rugbyists met and defeated the Navy from the Esquimalt naval barracks by the score of 15-3. The soldiers were the bigger and heavier team and had little difficulty controlling the play most of the time. This was true despite the fact that after the first ten minutes, when Armstrong, the army half, was forced to leave the field from the Esquimalt barracks, the military men were fourteen only in number. The navy brought out a speedy and energetic fifteen, but found the handling of weight too much to overcome.

The first points of the game were secured in brilliant manner by Ward, who kicked a brilliant field goal from the sidelines, thirty yards out. It was a magnificent kick, one of a calibre seldom seen on Victoria grounds. The soldiers' forwards raised to nine by the Garrison, when Pendray, the soldier skipper, broke through and scored. McLennan, hand, the military men were fourteen only in number. The navy brought out a speedy and energetic fifteen, but found the handling of weight too much to overcome.

In the second half both sides scored once, neither converting. Russell got over for the Garrison at the finish of a pretty three-quarter run, which began on the soldiers' twenty-five and ended under the posts of the Navy. The soldiers' forwards came when Freeman dodged through.

Heavy fog shut down towards the end of the game, sending many of the spectators home, and apparently the result of a pretty three-quarter run, which began on the soldiers' twenty-five and ended under the posts of the Navy. The soldiers' forwards came when Freeman dodged through.

BAYS AND WANDERERS WIN INTERMEDIATES

Former Best Normal School by Five to Three; Oak Bay High School by Six to Nil

Unwilling to play second fiddle to their senior club members, the J.B.A.A. intermediates took the measure of the Normal School rugger by a 5-3 at Oak Bay Park yesterday afternoon. The Normal School were forced to lower their colors to the best of the Bays' fifteen, who scored 6-0 on the Brentwood grounds.

CALGARY TIGERS LOSE TO ESKIMOS

HAL WINKLER IS HERO OF THE GAME

Sensational Goalkeeping Responsible for Result of Opening of Professional Hockey at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17.—Sensational goal tending by Hal Winkler gave the Edmonton Eskimos a 2 to 1 verdict over the Calgary Tigers in the first game of the special professional hockey series here tonight. Winkler was uncanny in his puck stopping and broke up many determined rushes of the Tiger clan by spectacular saves just when a sure goal was in sight. Considering the short practice and the fact that it was the opening tilt of the special professional hockey series, Winkler's performance was of a fairly high calibre, with the teams fighting all the way for supremacy and the winner was in doubt right up until the final whistle, when, Calgary was pressing hard to even up the count.

Goal Summary

First period—1, Edmonton, Morrison from Simpson, 5 minutes.
Second period—2, Edmonton, Trappe, 25 seconds.

Third period—3, Calgary, Martin from Fisher, 10 minutes.

Line-Up

Calgary: Goal, Winkler; Defenses, Gardner, Dutton, Oatman, Oliver, Wing, Morrison, Martin, Wing, Arbour, Crawford, Sub., Sheppard, Benton.

The adjourned annual meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Club will be held in the Central Building at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow when all members are requested to attend.

Sportive Punches

By the "Old 'Un"

Well, the Cougars certainly landed on their old enemies, the Maroons, with all four feet and their claws set when the Mainlanders made their first attack on the Wildcatters' lair.

Keep it up, you Mountain Lions. Nothing like getting a good lead at the start in any kind of race. Catching up towards the end looks all right perhaps, but it's apt to leave you nothing for the final sprint—AND THAT COUNTS.

The old harness-maker, as he reflectively rubbed some saddle soap on an old side-saddle somewhat pathetically negated the Old 'Un's suggestion that the horse was "coming back."

Well, maybe not as the lovely beast of burden, but what of the SPORT OF KINGS? It takes a horse to make that, and it's a sport which is far from dead.

Here's something with a real punch to it for the horse lover who doesn't use both belt and suspenders. It's by the greatest British sport poet to the Old 'Un's mind—Will H. Ogilvie.

Zev's Nose Looked In Front to Judges

Match Race at Churchill Downs Reverses Former Victory of In Memoriam—Hurricane Finish Is Practically Dead Heat, With General Impression Backed by Photographs That In Memoriam Had Won

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 17.—In what probably was the closest, most thrilling finish in the history of the American turf, Zev, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and conqueror of Papyrus, reversed the victory in Memoriam scored at Latonia two weeks ago by defeating him by a scant nose in a match race at one and one-quarter miles at Churchill Downs today.

The hurricane finish was so close that hardly a spectator in a crowd of 40,000 persons, with the possible exception of Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the winner, realized that Zev had won until the official decision of the judges had been posted.

The climax of the race furnished a thrill that set the crowd wild, as the two great three-year-olds floundered into the wire, racing neck and neck with scarcely an inch separating their noses. Trained observers, with years of experience in watching close finishes, shouted that In Memoriam had won, but received the shock of their lives a second later when the judges posted Zev as the winner. The finish, in the opinion of turf experts, was so close that the race could have been called a dead heat and not provoked an argument from admirers of either horse.

The race was won in 2:06 3-5, three and two-fifths seconds slower than the track record for the distance established by the winner in 1921, but Woodtrap did not carry the impost of 126 pounds that both In Memoriam and Zev carried.

Greatest Money Winner

Zev, as the result of his victory, becomes the greatest money-winning race horse in the world. Oscar Sinclair took down $25,000 of today's $30,000 purse, swelling Zev's winnings to $301,973, which showed him ahead of the winnings of the two English crack jockeys, with $291,275, and Donovan, with $277,215.

Zev's triumph probably means that he will seek international honors, as the winner of today's race has been invited to compete in a six-cornered race for a purse of 1,000,000 francs to be decided at the Longchamps course near Paris next May.

Owner Sinclair said tonight that Zev undoubtedly would compete in the race abroad if the offer still holds good after Zev's scheduled match race with My Own the latter part of this month.

Photographic Evidence

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 17.—Newspaper photographs of the Zev-In Memoriam match at Churchill Downs today show the heads of the two horses are on a practically dead line, with In Memoriam having a fraction the better of it, it is thought. Spectators on the finish line contended that In Memoriam's nose was projected farther than Zev's at the finish line. The newspaper photographs seem to bear out this conclusion.

The photographs, besides showing In Memoriam to be a fraction of a nose in the lead eighteen inches from the wire, showed one of his forefeet as just having hit the track and his body lunging forward from the impact of the stride, while Zev's corresponding foot is on its downward motion and cannot have given him an added impetus on the final jump before both crossed the wire.

The controversy raging over the thrilling ending of the match will not be ended by newspaper photographs as spectators, a number of them directly beneath the judges' stand and on a direct line with the finish post, were telling the world tonight that In Memoriam had won. Each person was confident that he was right because each "saw it with my own eyes."

Wise Counsellor Wins

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 17.—Wise Counsellor, owned by J. S. Ward and ridden by jockey Mack Garner, won the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes worth $30,500, at Churchill Downs today, defeating nine other two-year-olds in 1:37 2-5. The race, run to give a clue on the candidates eligible for the 1924 Kentucky Derby, was over a mile route. Mad Play, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, was second, and Chilhowee third.

Hockey Flashes

Frank Patrick's men will be out to turn the tables on Brother Lester's gang tomorrow night in Vancouver. And if they succeed in doing so, they will have to step a whole lot faster than they did here Friday. Perhaps they will. Especially if Mickey Mackay is on the ice.

Clem Lougheed will lead a sextette across the water there the Maroons will doubtless find hard to trim. The Cougars have lots of fighting spirit in them, and they would like to get away to a good start now and jump into the lead in the I.C.C.A. race with a couple of matches to the good. Here's hoping they will.

Wherever one goes one hears folks talking about the Victoria Club, and it appears to be the unanimous opinion that Lester has got together the greatest outfit that ever performed in blue and gold colors. His boys showed good style for the opening game, and local fans believe that they will be the team to watch in the struggle for the premier honors of the loop.

It should be a terrific battle tomorrow night in the Terminal City. The Maroons have yet to win a game. The Maroons dropped a contest to Seattle and another to Victoria, while Seattle has won two, and the Cougars have succeeded in getting an even break thus far, one win and one loss. If the Victoria winners are first, the Americans will be bid for first place, but if Vancouver comes through then Victoria and the Maroons will be tied for the second post, with two points each.

The Cougars' defence was one of the features of Friday's fray. Fowler in goal, and Captain in defence, "Our Slim" in front of him, frustrated them after times the efforts of the boys in the maroon sweaters, and received a big hand from the spectators.

Fredrickson, Halderman and Foyson, the latter of Seattle, are tied in the race for the league's scoring record, each of them having three points. The contest promises to be interesting this year, and it is not unlikely that Jimmy Gibson will give Frank a good run for the prize. Foyson appears to be a natural goal-keeper, and he can be relied upon to be in a high location throughout the Winter months. And Mickey Mackay's scoring ability cannot be overlooked, either.

The Seattle Metropolitans will be the Cougars' visitors in this city next Friday evening. Local fans like to see the Americans in action, because the brand of combination that Muldoon's bunch has exhibited in this kind season has been the best of its kind seen around here for some time. The Varsity has undoubtedly been treated to a fine display when Bobby Rowe and his fast-traveling colleagues set foot on Canadian soil on Friday.

The schedule of home matches for the Cougars during the season is as follows, all games being played on Friday nights:

Seattle vs. Victoria, November 23.
Saskatoon vs. Victoria, November 24.
Calgary vs. Victoria, December 7.
Vancouver vs. Victoria, December 24.
Seattle vs. Victoria, January 4.
Edmonton vs. Victoria, January 11.
Calgary vs. Victoria, January 18.
Vancouver vs. Victoria, January 25.
Regina vs. Victoria, February 1.
Seattle vs. Victoria, February 8.
Edmonton vs. Victoria, February 15.

SOCCER GAME CALLED

VANCOUVER, Nov. 17.—Vancouver Nationals were leading by three goals to two over Hotel Vancouver eleven in the midland soccer cup (I.C.C.A.) when the game was called on account of fog with ten minutes to play. The game was late in starting. A claim that Munro, of the hotel team, was unfairly charged also has been placed by the Vancouver Hotel team. The game probably will be disregarded in the league standing.

Jack Sullivan, councillor for Victoria on the board of the B.C.F.A., announced last night that the efforts have been made to get the champion Nanaimo soccer team here for an exhibition game for the Billy Muir fund have at length been successful. NO SURPRISES SEEN IN YESTERDAY'S LEAGUE GAMES

Sunderland Beat Blackburn 10vers by Five to One—Cardiff City Still Retains League Leadership

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Two visiting teams, Sheffield United and Newcastle United, were able to win on their opponents' ground this afternoon, and each won by exactly the same score of 2 to 1. There were four drawn games, while the remaining five contests resulted in victories for the home teams.

No surprises eventuated from the games, the draws between Manchester and Cardiff being quite in accord with the form displayed by the latter club in their recent battles.

Blackburn 10vers Sunderland, their defeat being registered by the large score of five goals to one, a result equalled by Burnley in their win against West Ham.

The leadership of the League remains in the hands of Cardiff City, with Huddersfield, Sunderland, Bolton Wanderers, Aston Villa and Everton battling for second place.

In the Scottish League the defeat of Hearts of Midlothian by Airdrie was the outstanding feature of the day. Three goals were chalked up against the Edinburgh men. One more unique result was the victory of the low-placed Hamilton Academicals over Partick. This game cost the Glasgow men a great deal and dropped them from runners-up to fifth place in the League. Neither Clyde nor Clydebank were able to improve their position. Today's results follow:

NAVY TEAM WINS FROM ENGLISHMEN

SAILED SIXTY-SEVEN PLAYERS SCORE THREE TO NIL

Notch Two in First Half of Game—Add Another Shortly Before Final Whistle

The Navy soccer eleven advanced yesterday when they took the Sons of England team into camp and trimmed them to the tune of three to nil, at the Canoe grounds. At half time the eventual winners were two up, and with about five minutes to go Hennessey made the victory more certain by fast legging when he booted the puck into the net for the third and last tally. The ball, which soon became heavy and slippery, proved somewhat of a handicap to good soccer, and mickicking was much in evidence on both sides.

RECALLS AMERICA'S SHIPPING FIASCO

The former Premier painted a black picture of the situation in Europe. He said every suggestion and every appeal that Great Britain had made had been rejected by France, Belgium, Italy and Turkey, and that at present Britain stood a negligible quantity in the councils of Europe. He deplored the negative results of the United States offer to inquire into Germany's reparations capacity, declaring the present British cabinet had "muddled it, messed it, and finally abandoned it."

Discussing England's international commerce, which free trade had built up, Mr. Lloyd George pointed to America's millions of tons of idle shipping, which, he said, was due mainly to the country's protectionist policy.

"The Americans," he added, "build on an element where no tariff could erect a barrier. You cannot put a customs barrier across the Atlantic. The result is that the ships are lying up. I saw them myself. They are the last of America at the present moment."

FANCY DRESS BALL FOR MONDAY NIGHT

EMPEROR BALLROOM WILL PRESENT BRILLIANT SCENE

Beautiful Metamorphosis Presented When Dances of Old Days Presented by Stopped Ladies

Under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. Walter C. Nichol, Premier and Mrs. Oliver, Senator and Mrs. R. F. Green and Mayor and Mrs. Hayward, the grand carnival ball and children's fancy dress party, formerly announced, will be held tomorrow evening in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel. Under the auspices of the Lady Douglas Chapter, L.O.D.E. The event will celebrate the sixty-fifth birthday of British Columbia, and those in charge of arrangements predict that it will be one of the most picturesque and unique affairs in the history of Victoria.

"To keep one hand on the traditions of the past and keep green the memory of our illustrious dead," is the motto of the chapter, which has done much to stimulate interest in those important anniversaries and honor the memory of those splendid pioneers who contributed largely to the building of this glorious north-western Province of British Columbia. The young people may, with their elders, participate in the celebration, the affair will begin with a children's fancy dress party from 7 to 8 during which children at intervals will give an exhibition of fancy dancing. Those taking part will be Gloria Wilson, Rosemary Nalmsmith, Valda Elmer and Kathleen Wilson.

The Battle of Flowers will prove an exciting treat for the little tots who will carry baskets, kindly loaned by the Red Cross Workshop, and filled with petals and roses ready for the "fray." Afterwards the children will assemble for the grand march and headed by the Pipe Band of the Hamilton will proceed to the large dining-room for supper.

Parents and Guardians
Parents and guardians of children who will not be remaining for the late ball will be admitted into the ballroom during the children's dance at a nominal charge.

The carnival ball will begin at 9 o'clock, when the Lieutenant-Governor, with his party, hopes to be present. The ballroom will present a gay spectacle of color and old fashions of all descriptions will intermingle with the more modern dress and will show a striking contrast.

The oldtime lancers, several sets of which have been already arranged, will be in charge of Mrs. George Simpson and the gavotte, directed by Mrs. W. H. Wilson, will be of special interest and danced by the following ladies: Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. W. H. Munro, Miss Edith Jaffray, Miss Frances Jaffray, Miss Joan Coddington, Miss Beatrice Macdonald, Miss Margaret Chapin and Miss Gladys McMillan. In dresses of snappy white. The reception committee will be composed of the chapter's members, Mrs. J. Schofield, Mrs. Dennis Harris, Lady McBride, Miss Crease, honorary regents: Mrs. R. B. McMillan, regent: Mrs. R. F. Green, Mrs. J. D. Gordon, Mrs. R. F. Tolmie, Mrs. R. L. Phillips and Mrs. E. E. Miller.

Native Sons on Committee
The floor committee, whose duties will be to assist in looking after the guests, will be native sons and are as follows: Messrs. George Bushby, Alvin Heimken, Gerald Bolton, Duncan McTavish, H. Pooley, Major Macdonald, Lindley Crease, Frank Higgins, Frank Seibel, Charlie Wilson and David Spencer.

Those who have signified their intention of being present include His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier and Mrs. Oliver, Hon. W. J. and Mrs. Bowser, the cabinet ministers and their wives, Mayor and Mrs. Hayward, Mrs. Henry Croft, Mrs. Curtis Sampson (regent of the Municipal Chapter), Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. J. Harvey.

COMB HAIR—AND IT STAYS

Millions Keep Hair Combed, Glossy, Well-Groomed—
Few Cents Buys Jar any Drugstore—Not Sticky, Smelly

Even obstinate, unruly or shampoed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it. (Advt.)

$55,555.00

Enter the Poster-Judging Competition which is being conducted in Canada for the benefit of the Veterans' Associations, and to which BOVRIL Limited has donated prizes totalling about $140,000.00 ($30,000).

These are divided in 2,003 prizes, each of the first three being really a fortune in itself—

1st Prize, $55,555.00
2nd " 13,888.00
3rd " 4,555.00

To play this game send a donation of $1.20 for a ticket-folder.

On this folder sixteen of the most celebrated posters of the World War are reproduced in full color. Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just what you must do and how to do it.

It is a fascinating trial of taste and judgment to choose these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which all the family can join and which will interest visitors, be they young or old.

And just think of the possible reward! A Prize which is a real fortune—and you help an excellent cause.

You can make as many trials as you like—every donation of $1.20 entitles you to a folder, and $12.00 secures 10 folders—though only one prize will be given to each person.

Cancer Discussed by American Surgeons

Cancer—the disease that is giving the medical and surgical world its hardest battle—engaged the attention of the American College of Surgeons last week in its session at the Congress Hotel. Cancer today is the most fatal disease known to medical science. 99 per cent of cases causing death if allowed to run their course. Only heart disease and tuberculosis outrank cancer as a cause of death, although the majority of its victims are persons over 45 years old. Dr. John Wesley Long, Greenboro, N.C., one of the leading cancer specialists of America, said that cancer can be cured if taken at the beginning. Dr. Long denied various notions regarding cancer in a summary as follows, according to a New York Herald dispatch:

"Cancer is strictly an individual disease, being neither contagious nor hereditary."

"Cancer is the most fatal disease we know, 99 per cent of the cases proving fatal if allowed to run their course."

"Cancer is a disease of adult life, 85 per cent of those who die from it being 45 years old or more. Of those reaching 40 years one man in every twelve and one woman in every eight die of cancer."

Death Rate Increasing

"While the death rate from typhoid fever, tuberculosis, malaria, pneumonia and even old age is constantly on the decline, that from cancer is increasing at the rate of 2.5 per cent annually. For instance, in five of the larger European countries the death rate in 1911 was 44.3 to the 100,000 population, and in 1917 it had risen to 50.4. To come nearer home, the death rate in Massachusetts in 1917 was 39.9 and in 1918 it was 42.9. In the United States as a whole the death rate from cancer is 78.9, which means that 80,000 people die of cancer in the United States every year, or one every six minutes. Cancer slays as many people each year as died from wounds and diseases during two years of the world war. Everyone will admit that public opinion upon any subject is largely a matter of education and growth."

"Home Treatment. Why, it has not been generations since we burned witches, even now we burn sexual maniacs at the stake. Well do I remember human slavery and the defence our Christian parents made for it, and we are all familiar with our recent toleration and license of the liquor traffic."

"That old-fashioned home remedy, such as grandmother's 'herb tea,' are sometimes not so bad, in the case of such an ailment as measles, for example, was admitted by Dr. Long."

"The cause of many of the most common diseases have not yet been discovered," he said. "Measles is a good illustration. Yet many a housewife can take her hot herb tea and cure the measles."

"If cancer and other diseases have their home remedies, they also have their home causes," Dr. Long said.

"A familiar example is the man who habitually holds a short-stem pipe in his mouth, often producing a cancer of the lip," he said. "The irritation here is mechanical, from the stem, and in part chemical, from the nicotine. A broken or rough tooth may do the same thing for the tongue. Eating too hot food is another cause."

"In China cancer of the esophagus is not unusual among the men who eat their rice steaming hot, while the women, who first wait upon the men and do not eat their rice until it is cooled, do not have cancer."

"We hold on tenaciously to moles, warts and lacerations, traveling along through life unconscious of the fact we are carrying a potential cancer around with us all the while. Furthermore, we constantly irritate such abnormal possessions by ill-fitting dress, improper habits, unwholesome diet, combs and razors, all of which may be compared to the match of irritation which lights the fire of malignancy. A stick of dynamite in one's vest pocket would be less dangerous."

Value of Cold Cream

Dr. A. C. Scott, president of the Texas State Medical Association and State chairman of the American Society for Cancer Control, said that exposure to excessive sun and wind in a dry climate also gives rise to cancer. That makes the Texas Panhandle a place for people with thin skins to avoid, according to Dr. Scott. In this his colleague, Dr. W. Burton Thorne of Houston, agrees with him. If cold cream was found beside the wash basin on every Texas ranch instead of being restricted to milady's boudoir there would be a great decrease of skin cancer in Texas and other dry Western States, these surgeons think.

Dr. Thorne said that the deep X-ray, with its voltage of 200,000, can now be used for treating internal cancer, because the normal tissue cells have more resistance than the embryonic cancerous cells. These break down and are killed off by the penetrating rays, while the normal tissue is not affected.—Mail and Empire.

COAL WAGON PILOT STEPS OUT AND WINS HIMSELF SPORT MODEL

There was a sleek called Anthracite who drove a five-ton hack. He hauled hard coal from morn till night and treasured up his "jack." From 8 o'clock till 5 p.m. he was a workman of measure means in denim jeans aboard his fuel van. But when his working day was done, the way that boy stepped out! He faded all the bankers' sons and put the shanks to rout. His trousers belted about his feet; his hair stuck to his pate; his nifty smile had class and style that kept the girls out late.

And every night he'd strut his stuff among the village swells; at every dance he'd spring his bluff—this boy was there with bells. No longer does he herd his truck with five full tons of coal, one moonlit night young Anthracite was upset for a goal. He met a queen of fair demeanor and they were shortly wed. She has more cash than he had class—he now drives "sports" instead.

Dr. CHASE'S OINTMENT

The Future of Tangier

By Walter B. Harris, in The Times

THE situation is briefly this: Tangier occupies an important strategic position on the Straits of Gibraltar, with the possibilities in the future of some measure of commercial prosperity. Its legal status still remains undefined, and for every reason a solution of its anomalous position is urgently needed. Two points of the utmost importance result from Tangier's position: (1) Its neutrality in time of war; and (2) that Tangier's trade and industry be open to all nations on a basis of equality of treatment. It is not disputed that the Sultan of Morocco is the legitimate Sovereign over Tangier, though his administrative authority has gradually become diminished by a sort of superimposed, and often usurped, form of internationalization in which the representatives of England, France and Spain play important, though very thankless, parts. The result of this complexity of administration is chaos, and it is high time that Tangier was released from resulting bondage of international obstruction and jealousy which has brought about its ruin.

The programme of the powers concerned are briefly as follows: The British Foreign Office demands what amounts to the entire separation of Tangier and its 260 square miles of zone from the rest of Morocco, and the installation of an absolute international Government under the direct nominal authority of the Sultan, who is to be deprived of the power of even nominating his own delegate to the International Government Council. In this International Government Britain demands an active participation.

The French Government upholds the existing and undisputed legitimate authority of the Sultan, but is prepared to accept the internationalization of the Tangier local administration, of its port and its railway, of the Courts of Justice and its police. But France declines on behalf of the Sultan, who is a French-protected potentate, to surrender the Islamic institutions, such as His Majesty's authority over his own Muslim subjects and the administration of the Islamic civil law in the native courts.

Spain, failing to obtain the inclusion of Tangier in the Spanish zone of Morocco, has as yet not formulated any definite policy, but may be expected to support the British rather than the French programme. The point of view is that I desire to call attention to that of the Foreign Office, which seems to be unable to imagine any guarantee of Tangier's neutrality in time of war, or of the open door to commerce, which do not include active British intervention, participation in an International Government—an adventure fraught with so many possibilities of complications and dangers in the future that I hesitate to believe that it has received the mature consideration of H.M. Government. From every point of view this policy is impractical and unwise. First, Tangier, with its little zone of some 260 square miles, has practically no sources of revenue and no exports. Nor will it ever have exports, for the rich agricultural districts of Morocco are situated far away, and are served by the southern ports, while the only mining district likely to prove profitable lies near the sea, in the Rif. Today, Tangier's officials and the large police force which maintains order in the zone itself against aggression, are paid by the Sultan's Government. In the case of the introduction of an international Government the whole cost would fall upon the newly-formed State.

INDIANAPOLIS FINDS WAY TO CHECK SPEEDERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—Jail sentences, heavy fines and loss of their automobiles are proving effective in reducing the number of speeders in Indianapolis. The plan, introduced a short time ago by Judge Delbert O. Wilmett, has resulted in a general let down in speeding throughout the city, according to police officers.

Judge Wilmett works on a scale. First offenders are fined a set amount for whatever speed they are convicted of having made, but do not have to pay if they relinquish their machines for a certain number of days. For

"Go-to-Church Sunday"

The Ministerial Association decided to make Sunday, November 18, a "Go-to-Church Sunday," the purpose of this move being not to seek a favor from the people or patronage, but to ask them to recognize the work of the local churches in helping to secure a well-ordered government, and thus to increase the economic as well as moral prosperity of the citizens. It would be appreciated by local ministers and churches if all the clubs, friendly societies, civic bodies and Provincial members could attend some religious service, either in their respective units or as individuals representing the same.

Victoria Ministerial Association
Go-to-Church Sunday
November 18

Every true citizen who will reflect for a few moments will no doubt conclude that the organized churches are a moral asset to him. Let each ask the question, "How much do I owe to the churches?" Let them answer this question by making an effort to attend at least one service on this day.

example, a person convicted of driving 35 miles an hour is fined $5 and costs. On payment of the costs and turning in his licence plates and driver's certificate, the fine is suspended. In five days the offender again may drive his car.

The faster a person drives the heavier the fine and the longer he must be without his car. There is only one recourse from a state farm sentence upon conviction for a second offence. That is through the higher courts, to which a number of appeals already have been made.

Plays and Players

"The Spanish Dancer" Pola Negri's Latest

Antonio Moreno, Hero of Picture Which Is Feature Presentation at the Dominion Theatre This Week, Has Novel Role—Strong Story of Love, Intrigue and Human Interest

HE owned a palace and suit of pajamas! Antonio Moreno, featured player in Pola Negri's new star picture, "The Spanish Dancer," a Herbert Brenon production for Paramount, which comes to the Dominion Theatre this week, woke up one morning to find that all he owned in the world was a palace and his night attire. It was made of fine silk and had a monogram and coat-of-arms embroidered on the front, but the fact remained, it was not precisely fashionable wear for a stroll through the streets of the city.

However, it all took place in the reign of King Philip IV. of Spain, and Moreno was reviving an incident in the life of Don Cesar de Bazan, a leading character in the "Paranquet" picture which Pola Negri says is the strongest story in which she has ever appeared.

While Don Cesar sleeps, his creditors enter the old man's mansion of his family and carry off everything it contains. Cesar awakens in time to utter a noble protest as they ruthlessly steal the sheets from under him.

"The Spanish Dancer" is a costume picture with a very strong story of love, intrigue and human interest running throughout. The character of Maritana gives Pola Negri the greatest opportunity she has had since she came to America.

Maritana, a beautiful Spanish egypt dancing girl, goes in search of Don Cesar de Bazan, of whose prodigality she has heard much. She finds him at a banquet given by him to his friends and tells his fortune, which she predicts, is one of evil. Don Cesar distributes money among the guests, one of whom steals his purse. When Maritana hears of this she battles with the thief, is badly wounded, and forcing the purse from him, restores it to Don Cesar. The latter's creditors swoop down upon him and he becomes a fugitive. The king's soldiers capture Maritana and in ransoming her, Don Cesar kills a captain for which offence he is sentenced to death. Through the aid of a wily courtier Don Cesar and Maritana are married in masquerade, the latter being told that she is to marry his bride carried to the king, who is enamored of her. Don Cesar is providentially saved by one of Maritana's supporters, who substitutes bread pellets for the bullets in the guns of the firing squad. The king's friendship for Don Cesar and his bride is won and all ends happily.

BIG VAUDEVILLE SHOW IS COMING

"Plantation Days," With Thirty Colored Entertainers, Plays Here This Week at Pantages

The big vaudeville event of the season will be the opening at Pantages Theatre at 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening of the first of the occasional "unit" shows which come over the circuit. There have been several this season, but it was thought improbable that expenses would be got in the smaller towns, so they played only the larger places, where the population and the size of the theatre are large enough to do the big business necessary. This time, however, Mr. Pantages has decided to give Victoria a chance to show whether it is worth while playing such shows here in future and he is sending "Plantation Days," instead of jumping it straight from Vancouver to Tacoma, as he did the other. "Plantation Days" is a sensational Southern musical comedy show with thirty colored entertainers, the original cast that scored a notable hit in the Palace Theatre, London, England, and that played all the big Eastern cities as a road show at prices up to $2.50, before Mr. Pantages succeeded in securing it for his circuit. Directed and produced by Lawrence Deas, this play was built for speed, with ten characterful and beautiful scenes. Gorgeous scenic effects and many changes of attractive costumes are promised.

An all-star cast is promised, including the following stars: Chapelle and Rinnette, two of vaudeville's premier artists who present a very attractive programme of harmony melody; Jones and Jones in their character classic of the Southern negro; Seymour and Jeanette, the "mid-nite" steppers in a snappy offering; and the Five Crackerjacks, a high-power troupe of entertainers presenting fast singing, dancing and an acrobatic programme.

Every movement from the latest tattle to the wildest of whirlwinds including eccentric and acrobatic terphochorean novelties, will be introduced. Scott, Allen and Lee, three joyous syncopators, and the original Pepper chorus, consisting of eight girls who offer some speedy jazz dancing numbers.

Mr. Jamieson says that from Mr. Pantages himself, from Eddie Milne, the New York representative, and from Ed. Fisher, the general manager at Seattle, he has all the same word—that he cannot say too much as to the merit of this show, which has been drawing business beyond the capacity of every theatre on the circuit up to now.

Owing to the limited capacity of the "Pan," the shortness of the engagement and the unusual cost of this attraction, it is absolutely necessary to advance the prices, but this has been made as small as possible. It is not possible to have reserved seats all over when a show is given a night as on Wednesday and Thursday, but as there is only one performance on Tuesday night, at 9 o'clock, reserved seats will be sold for that performance only. The box office will be open for this sale on Monday and Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Every person in the city who ever goes to any form of theatrical engagement will want to see "Plantation Days," and Manager Jamieson says "Go early. Go in often. Go in to see if you can get in, but go early if you want to be sure of seeing it. Get a reserved seat for Tuesday night, or if you can't do that get in early to the 7 o'clock shows on Wednesday and Thursday nights. That show on both nights is going to be packed, and so is the 9 o'clock one, so go early and avoid the risk of being crowded out."

LON CHANEY STARS IN NEW OFFERING

"The Shock" Tells Vivid Story of Earthquake in San Francisco—Dramatic Power Unexcelled

Lon Chaney in a Universal-Jewel super-production that comes to a climax when a reproduction of the earthquake of 1906 shakes San Francisco into kindling for the great fire, will be the offering at the Columbia Theatre beginning tomorrow for three days. It is entitled "The Shock."

The earthquake is shown on the screen with vivid realism. It was, in fact, an earthquake that the camera recorded. On the 550 acres of Universal City, a section of San Francisco was built in replica. It was then shaken to pieces and burned as San Francisco men who had experienced the catastrophe stood by to point out the collapse of the fire and the duration of the shocks.

Players who like the twang of Allegheny in their accents will be thrilled in this big Universal-Jewel which mirrors real life on the screen. Unlike many productions of the screen there is nothing forced. The action moves forward with the naturalness of life itself.

The sweetness is provided by Virginia Vall, the beautiful star of "The Storm," and the bitterness is shown in the graphic account of the life of a man in San Francisco's Barbary Coast.

Lambert Hillier, who directed most of "Bill" Hart's successes, directed this latest Chaney-Vall production.

CAT AND CANARY WILL DRAW MANY TO ROYAL VICTORIA

If there is a desire on the part of players to see a good entertainment, there should be a fine turnout for "The Cat and the Canary," the thrilling drama by John Willard, which Kilbourn Gordon, Inc. presents at the Royal Victoria two nights, November 23 and 24. The story of "The Cat and the Canary" is said by all who have seen it to be perfectly logical, and the situations and characters are so well conceived and constructed that the incidents might happen to the characters he, near neighbors. However, the weird and unusual things that happen in the course of the two hours and a half "The Cat and the Canary" is in action are, in truth, not nearly as strong as the things that happened to the famous Bell family which were revealed in the courts when the will case was on trial. But "The Cat and the Canary" is a happy play and while there are thrills there is also romance and comedy in good measure.

DEMONSTRATION IS FEATURE OF SHOW

Among the other interesting features of the Potato Show was the demonstration of the grades of commercial potatoes. Canada A, Canada B and Canada C were shown. This work was carried on by District Inspector R. G. L. Clarke, of Vancouver, and the local inspector, Mr. Robert Murray, under the Fruit and Root Vegetables Act. This was purely educational to show the growers and shippers, and also the consumer, what was required in the Canada A, B and C grades, and it was quite apparent there was a good spread between the A and B grades of $3 to $7 per ton or from 25 cents to 50 cents a sack by the individual sack when purchased from the local grocer, the Canada A being a grade with the minimum of waste, while the Canada B took care of the rough, misshapen and abnormal growths.

All potatoes offered for sale must bear a tag showing the name of the grower or association shipping and the address, also the grade.

This is only the second season of the working of the potato grading and the wholesalers and the trade are well satisfied with the results, as they are now in a position to get redress from the shipper if the potatoes do not comply with the grades as defined in the Act.

The potatoes for this demonstration were kindly loaned by the B. W. Wilson Co., A. P. Blade & Co. and F. R. Stevens & Co., wholesale fruit and vegetable merchants.

FILM STARS FACE SALARY SLASHES

PAY BOOSTED TO ABSURDITY MUST DROP

Business Held Imperilled—Producers See Necessity of Drastic Action—Figures Show Stars' Salaries

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Salaries of leading or feature motion picture players who are not under contract, that have skyrocketed in the past two years from a range between $100 and $1,200 a week to from $1,000 to $15,000 a week, present one of the stiffest problems in the current reorganization of the industry to a firm business basis, according to heads of production here.

Executives of the film world today are belling down their coat sleeves. The entire business is in the throes of readjustment, they assert. It is described as the second phase of the revolution of the industry that commenced under the advisory direction of Will E. Hays. The first chapter opened two years ago. That was the moral crusade, the clean-up of the screen for producing more wholesome plays. Now comes the economic mopping-up in the upward progress of the films.

Feature Costs Face $100,000
Costs of a playing cast for a standard feature production soared from a few thousand dollars to $60,000, the cost for a recent picture. The entire cost of a feature is said to average $100,000 to $175,000.

The swing to better pictures is described as having developed a situation similar to an oil strike or a gold discovery. Salaries and other costs climbed at a rate without precedent and continued climbing. Today, says the incomparable Jackie Coogan and coming to the Royal Theatre on Monday.

MARCEL DUPRE WILL PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Celebrated Organist Will Give Recital at St. Andrew's Cathedral—Symphony Programme

Marcel Dupre, the famous organist of Paris, will be at the organ of the St. Andrew's Cathedral this evening at 8 o'clock. A number of seats can be occupied, and if any visitor from the prairies or elsewhere, has not had the opportunity of securing admission tickets for this event during the week, a personal application can be made to the management at the right hand door of the cathedral. Victor Edmunds will sing two farewell numbers, preceding the improvisation symphony, selected from the themes by local musicians.

YOUNG MUSICIANS TO PLAY THIS WEEK

Two young and very talented musicians in the Misses Edith and Vera Oelrich have arrived in the city after an extended concert tour of the Pacific Northwest, where they have been received with much enthusiasm. This is particularly merited when the youth of these artists is considered, their ages being 14 and 14 years respectively. Their repertoire includes a large range of classical compositions as well as the well-known operatic overtures, which these young ladies play in duple form. The entire concert will be given entirely from memory. The public may have ample opportunity to hear and see these artists in repertoire, announcement is made that they will perform at Fletcher Bros. music store each afternoon this week, commencing at three o'clock.

SIX BIG CIRCUSES AID JACKIE COOGAN

Star Does Out Free Presents and Lemonade to Delighted Youngsters—Then Rushes Off to Revel

Imagine a boy in whom the equipment and talent of six great circuses were made available for him to revel in.

Then you will get some small idea of the supreme enjoyment that fell to the lot of one eight-year-old lad in the guise of "work."

"Geet! That circus has must be an awful nut, bringing a circus was out to these parts!"

That, or other words to that effect, was the casual observation of most anyone who was "not in the know" when he viewed the great expanse of tents that covered many isolated acres on the outskirts of the small town of Hollywood.

But the reason for gay banners and flashing posters proclaiming the wonders of "Daisy's Mammoth Circus"—"The Greatest Show on Earth!" soon became generally known.

It was a real collection all right, or rather a collection of circuses, but it wasn't being staged for the regular circus-going public. It was being used in the filming of the biggest circus picture ever made—"Circus Days," starring the incomparable Jackie Coogan and coming to the Royal Theatre on Monday.

BARBARA LA MARR AND WALLACE BEERY
In a scene from "The Eternal Struggle," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre this week

California were used in many of the most important scenes of the film. Elephants, camels, lions, monkeys, acrobats, equestriennes, trapeze artists and clowns—in fact, everything that goes into the making of a great circus, from howling side-show freaks and screaming steam calliopes to blaring bands, were there.

A battery of half a dozen cameras was used to "shoot" the spectacular circus scenes and these, it is said, are the most effective ever taken.

The whole business was more fun than work for Jackie, who had as boon companions, Nellie Lane, the fattest woman in the world, as well as Peaches Jackson, a tiny equestrienne star.

"Circus Days," a First National picture presented by Sol Lesser, is adapted from James Otis' famous story, "Toby Tyler, or Ten Weeks With a Circus."

The strong cast that supports Jackie includes Barbara Tennant, Russell Simpson, Claire McDowell, Cesare Gravini, Peaches Jackson, Sam De Grasse and De Witt Jennings.

The production is declared to be the finest in which Jackie Coogan has yet appeared.

ROYAL ORCHESTRA WILL PLAY REAL CIRCUS MUSIC

On Monday night, which is music lovers' night, and for the balance of the week at the Royal Theatre, Mr. A. Prescott, director of the orchestra, has arranged a programme of real circus music to accompany the feature picture, Jackie Coogan in "Circus Days," which is the attraction at the above theatre all this week. Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows:

Overture, "Suite From India" (Francis Popy) (a) "The Bayaderes," (b) "The Ganges," (c) "Patrol." Picture music: Rag, "Tar Babies" (Lodge); galop, "London to Paris" (Le Thiere); suite, "American" (Thurban); patrol, "The Coon" (Lodge); galop, "The Ringmaster" (Whitling).

MACY AND BAIRD TO PRESENT ST. ELMO

Popular Company Arranges Special Version of Famous Novel to Add Element of Comedy

Next Friday and Saturday the Macy and Baird Company will present the growing achievement of their entire engagement, a beautiful dramatization of that famous and most interesting novel, "St. Elmo."

In the novel there is very little comedy, and to overcome this defect, the Macy and Baird Company has a special version arranged for them with a splendid comedy part added, which certainly enlivens the more serious moments of the drama.

"St. Elmo" has recently been produced in pictures, and no doubt will be presented in Victoria soon. It will be quite a novelty to see the play, read the book, and see the pictures all within a short period of time.

There is no doubt but "St. Elmo" will arouse greater interest than any dramatic production presented in Victoria this winter.

SCHOOL CONCERT IS NOTABLE SUCCESS

A very successful concert was held on Thursday evening in the Margaret Jenkins School, in aid of the P.T.A. fund for improving the school grounds. Over two hundred people attended, who enthusiastically endorsed every number. Mr. T. Kelway opened the concert, and his sweet tenor voice thrilled the gathering. Mrs. McCallum rendered two soprano solos, and was followed by Mr. Drysdale in some very clever conjuring stunts, which mystified the audience. Miss Pauline Hall, on the violin, was very much appreciated. The Kiwanis Glee Club, consisting of five voices, sang very well, and their local hits caused lots of fun. Miss Gladys Thorpe in a song, and his sweet Margaret Jenkins P.T.A., and this time proved no exception. Mr. E. Impett, in song and story, received a storm of applause, and the audience was loath to let him go. Mr. Javan, in comic song, was very amusing. A very hearty vote of thanks to the artists was passed for giving Four Day district such an enjoyable evening.

"ETERNAL STRUGGLE" IS LAID IN CANADA

Actors Spent Months in Snow Country Near Banff in Shooting Metro Picture—Thrilling Theme

With a setting that reflects the majesty of the towering forests and great, open stretches of the Canadian wilderness, and a story fairly pulsating with the romance and adventurous thrills of the land of the Northwest Mounted Police, "The Eternal Struggle," showing at the Capitol Theatre this week, not only seems like the real thing. It is.

Reginald Barker directed the picture for Louis B. Mayer presentation through Metro. The story is based on G. H. Lancaster's powerful novel, "The Law-Bringers," and the scenes were filmed in northwest Canada on the original locale represented in Mr. Lancaster's book.

Months were spent in preparation for the trip, for mechanically it was a big engineering project, and because of the tremendous overhead on the company every conceivable obstacle had to be solved beforehand in order to prevent costly delays once the filming expedition was launched.

The company embarking from Los Angeles numbered fifty-three. In addition to Reginald Barker, the director, there were Renee Adoree, Earle Williams, Pat O'Malley, Pat Harmon, George Kuwa and Barbara La Marr of the cast, Percy Halburn at the head of the group of cameramen, and a large force of electrical property and construction men.

First Call at 4 A.M. Banff became the headquarters of the company and, using it for a base of supplies, they touched on Jasper, Calgary, Edmonton, Lake Louise Station and Athabasca Landing during their filming activities.

With all of the snow sequences filmed to the director's satisfaction, the company transferred the scene of their operations to the Seymour Creek district near North Vancouver. Here, at the Seymour Canyon Rapids, was staged a thrill that is not only the climax of "The Eternal Struggle," but is also one of the most daring and most spectacular episodes ever offered on the screen.

This was the first time that the Seymour Canyon Rapids were ever conquered by a canoe. The Indians in the vicinity, who termed the stream "Devil Water," warned the company against trying to shoot the rapids and related tales of ill-guided braves who had attempted it, but not one of the

Neighbors Recommend Vicks for Colds

Now This Manitoba Family Always Has a Jar on Hand

The impulse to help is strong in human nature and people are always willing to talk about a remedy that really brings relief. In this way, that is through the neighbors, many hundreds—yes, thousands—of Canadians have heard of Vicks.

Mrs. Walter Dryden, of 181 7th St., Brandon, Manitoba, writes, "I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude for what Vicks VapoRub has done for me and other members of my family. It gives us so much satisfaction that we all use it whenever we feel the need of a salve. Last winter we all had bad colds in our family and I didn't know what to do. Some neighbors told me to try Vicks VapoRub, so I got a jar and in a short time our colds were all gone. Now we always keep a jar on hand."

Applied externally, Vicks acts like a liniment or poultice. In addition, the volatile oils are vaporized on the body heat and inhaled directly into the air passages. This double action quickly loosens a cold.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vicks Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

SAANICH SUCCESS SHOWS SEED VALUE

Demonstration Plot Established by Horticultural Branch Origin of Winning Potato Show Entry

The success achieved by the Saanich district and the Victoria Potato Growers' Association in winning second place in the district exhibit at the Provincial Potato Show is worthy of special mention as showing the value of certified seed.

Sir Walter Raleigh was only three points behind the famous Netted Gem from the Windermere district, scoring 76.5 points out of a possible 800 points.

A brief outline of the source of the eight individual exhibits might be interesting at this time. In 1918 the horticultural branch established a six-acre strawberry demonstration plot on the farm of G. A. Vantreight, Gordon Head. A six-acre rotation was established and an acre of potatoes was included in the rotation. The Sir Walter Raleigh was selected as the most suitable variety.

In 1920, before seed certification work had been started by the soil and crop branch, special seed selection was made for the acre of potatoes being grown on the demonstration plot by Mr. E. W. White, district horticulturist.

This selection was continued in 1921 and during that year the first certified seed potatoes were produced. In the spring of 1922 this certified seed was sold and formed the basis of the exhibits which carried off the second prize in the district exhibit in 1923.

In that year certified seed was sold by Mr. G. A. Vantreight to Mr. Geo. Stewart, Keating, and to Mr. W. E. Somers, Gordon Head. In 1923 Mr. Vantreight sold seed to Mr. A. M. Bowman R.R. 1, Sidney; Mr. J. Haulman, Gordon Head, and Mr. T. Brown, Gordon Head. Mr. W. E. Somers, R.M.D. 1, Royal Oak, also purchased Mr. Vantreight's seed, and Mr. Geo. Stewart, Keating, sold certified seed to Mr. W. W. Lurcan, Stuart, secretary of the Potato Growers' Association.

This distribution of certified seed in 1923 and 1924 gave eight growers in Saanich who were all growing Sir Walter Raleigh potatoes from certified seed and who were also all members of the Victoria Potato Growers' Association.

Credit is due Mr. G. A. Vantreight, of Gordon Head, for the time taken to select the various exhibits. Next year an even greater effort will be made to carry off the premier honors. It is interesting to note that all of the above growers are also strawberry growers and using the potato as a rotation crop.

Rippe and Fox; personations by Scout Morphy; stunts by the Cubs; "log rolling" by the Scouts and two scenes of Scout camp life. Mr. Drysdale assisted by Mr. Tedwell delighted the audience in "Up-to-Date Mysteries." During the evening Mr. H. T. Ravenhill, the chairman of the Victoria association, gave a brief address emphasizing the value of the fourth Scout law, and also paid a tribute to the Girl Guides.

Nanaimo Odd Fellows Remember Early Days

NANAIMO, Nov. 16.—In 1888, just thirty-eight years ago, five Nanaimo members of the Odd Fellows journeyed to Victoria, where they secured a charter for the Nanaimo Encampment, and, in commemoration of that event, Nanaimo Encampment No. 4, I.O.O.F., last evening, celebrated its thirty-eight anniversary. A what drive occupied the first part of the evening. Later the assembly adjourned to the banquet room, where refreshments were served, followed by a social.

Mrs. John Shaw, Newcastle Townsite, was hostess at a bridge party of ten tables at her home yesterday afternoon. The bridge was given under the auspices of the Bastion Chapter, I.O.D.E. Mrs. A. E. Plant and Mrs. Dobson presiding at the tea table. The guests, Miss Debaen, with Mrs. Canfield and Mrs. T. Spencer, were convener. The prizes were donated by Mrs. R. L. Cain and Mrs. T. R. Booth, and were won by Mrs. A. E. Plant and Mrs. T. Calderhead.

ORCHESTRA REVIVED WILL GIVE CONCERT

Ensemble of Forty-Two Instruments to Be Heard in Programme November 28—Ambitious Plans

People who had grown resigned to the idea that the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, which disappeared from sight two years ago very shortly after its formation, will be more than astonished to learn that the organization has been quietly revived and is to come back with renewed vigor under the name of the Victoria Orchestra Society. In a concert to be held in the High School auditorium on Friday evening, November 30.

This is good news. The new orchestra started with about a dozen members, but has now reached a strength of forty-two, and comprises the best amateur talent in the city, assisted by the best professional players obtainable. String, wood, brass and percussion instruments all being represented in the traditional manner. They do not make any boast about their work nor claim perfection of ensemble, but they do claim to have made an improvement on the previous effort.

ELKS WILL CONDUCT MONTE CARLO NIGHT

Assured Here Arrangements for Carnival Function on Thursday, November 29—Ladies Assisting

A grand "Monte Carlo Evening" will be the order of proceedings in the Elks Hall on Thursday night, November 29, when members of Victoria Lodge No. 2, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, aided by the Ladies of the Elks, will hold a big carnival function. The affair will take the form of a masquerade, and it is hoped that everyone will wear fancy costume, although mode of dress is optional.

Diversified amusements will be indulged in by all the patrons, with dancing being one of the principal features of the entertainment. Music for the dancing will be furnished by Heaton's Entertainers, and prizes will be given for the best masquerade costumes. A buffet supper will be served. This will be one of the series of social functions that the Elks are conducting during the winter months.

Mr. Alfred Wright heads the committee in charge of the affair, the other members being Messrs. D. W. Spence, Champion, H. Collins, Alex. Pether, Ernest Butler and Messrs. J. C. Dillabough, Harry N. Howard, Harry Reid, Gus Meenan, Bob Petch, Andy Hill, Jack W. Gilka, Jimmy Stewart, Gus Brown, Frank Sommers, Herbert Collings and Darrel W. Spence.

MOONSHINERS FOOL U.S. BOOTLEGGERS

Canadian Hi-Jackers Use Good Scotch to Doctor Poor Rye, Prohibitionist Says

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 17.—Canadian bootleggers, their business destroyed by the modification of the Manitoba dry laws, are turning their attention to supplying the United States with illicit liquor, according to a statement by S. R. Quale, prohibition director of Minnesota.

Mr. Quale termed the organization of Canadian bootleggers one of the largest smuggling enterprises ever found here. Having completed an investigation, he plans to lay his evidence before the Manitoba authorities in an effort to secure their assistance in suppressing the whisky ring.

Alleged Scotch whisky in huge quantities is coming over the border into Minnesota, Mr. Quale says, but he said much of it was Canadian moonshine, mixed with Scotch whisky to give it flavor.

Additional customs service deputies and prohibition agents to patrol the border have been requested of Washington, Mr. Quale said.

Canadian Hi-Jackers Use Good Scotch to Doctor Poor Rye, Prohibitionist Says

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 17.—Canadian bootleggers, their business destroyed by the modification of the Manitoba dry laws, are turning their attention to supplying the United States with illicit liquor, according to a statement by S. R. Quale, prohibition director of Minnesota.

Mr. Quale termed the organization of Canadian bootleggers one of the largest smuggling enterprises ever found here. Having completed an investigation, he plans to lay his evidence before the Manitoba authorities in an effort to secure their assistance in suppressing the whisky ring.

Alleged Scotch whisky in huge quantities is coming over the border into Minnesota, Mr. Quale says, but he said much of it was Canadian moonshine, mixed with Scotch whisky to give it flavor.

Additional customs service deputies and prohibition agents to patrol the border have been requested of Washington, Mr. Quale said.

Morocco Is Difficult Problem for Spain

"The Spanish people have for years been the victims of a kind of political conspiracy," writes Charles Black in The London Daily News, "a system of government by which the two biggest parties in the country agree to take turns at being in power, if nothing else." For generations political observers have marvelled that the monarchy could stand in a country where conditions were so corrupt. Endowed with a constitution under which they enjoyed very limited rights, the people were controlled by a grasping and venal class, whom they called Caciques, using the title of the extortionate Peruvian governors of Conquistador days. Had it not been for the universal popularity of King Alfonso, a popularity of which he has with singular tact availed himself to avert national calamities in the past, and which doubtless proved a strong factor in the maintenance of public order in the recent coup d'état, the monarchy would hardly have survived the Barcelona outbreak of 1909 by many years. One grave obstacle existed, however, to any change in the form of government. Having had no voice in their country's affairs in the past, and lacking a party to which they could adhere, the people seemed impotent to assert their rights. Many years ago Primo de Rivera, a bourgeois riding itself at one stroke of bureaucracy and bolshevism, that Primo de Rivera Marquis de Estella opened the door which may lead Spain to the conquest of first-class powers.

Nor did Rivera take this action solely on account of internal corruption. The dictator is a soldier by nature and owns a soldier's title, having inherited it from his uncle, who earned it in the Carlist wars. "He is a man of great moral and physical courage," says the Madrid correspondent of The London Morning Post, "and what is of infinitely greater significance in the present world situation, 'throughout the war he was a persistent friend of the Allies.' The effect of this in Morocco will doubtless be evident, for it is now reported that Spain will evacuate the Rif, abandoning that turbulent area to Raisuli (if he can hold it), internal hostilities and the inevitable fate of subjugation to some strong European power. In deciding to withdraw the troops from Morocco, Rivera merely follows the logical sequence of the policy which led to his coup d'état.

"No enterprise of the self-seeking politicians has so thoroughly disgusted the Spanish people as the Moroccan venture," writes Britton Austin in the continental edition of The London Daily Mail. It must have surprised many people that Captain-General Primo de Rivera's military pronouncements denounced the Moroccan campaign. For a military party to counsel the abandonment of a war in which their country is engaged is indeed an odd thing. And it is highly significant.

"Spain from end to end is convinced that the Spanish army is not in Morocco, and particularly in the Rif, for any national advantage. It is convinced that Spain is being drained of blood and treasure in order that certain gold and iron mining concessions acquired long since in that part of the world, and more or less shared by them with politicians essential to their plans, may be made to render dividends to their proprietors."

It is therefore not altogether surprising that Rivera has decided to turn the Rif over to Raisuli. Ever since July, 1921, when Abd-el Krim, the exceedingly able Berber leader who has been a thorn in the side of the Spanish administration, inflicted a severe defeat on the Spanish army, the military party have striven for the termination of an inglorious campaign.

The Spanish policy in the matter was the one of setting a thief to catch a thief, and only time will show whether they are backing the right thief, for Abd-el Krim would appear to be in no degree inferior to Raisuli. The former is a graduate of the University of Madrid, who was imprisoned by the Spaniards for his pro-German sympathies, and has, ever since his escape from prison, waged a brilliant campaign against the Spanish forces in Morocco. From time to time he has offered Madrid advantageous terms, which the Spanish Government has been compelled to refuse on account of its anti-French bias. Spain cannot afford to cross the path of France in Morocco. So Raisuli's offer was accepted. So only half-heartedly at first, and now Rivera, the soldier-dictator, "a strong and persistent friend of the Allies," has ordered the withdrawal of troops from the zone.

What will be the result? Spain was granted the mandate at the Conference of Algiers, and the Powers may not permit her to abandon the area to her own nominee. Which ever brilliant achieves success in the coming operations, it is highly improbable that either Abd-el Krim or Raisuli will be left to the quiet enjoyment of his victory.

Motor's Deadly Work on Game

"The automobile," writes Dr. W. T. Hornaday, of the New York Zoological Garden, "is getting in its deadly work on the game of the Dakotas, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Manitoba, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other States and places than there is space to mention.

"It is my estimate that the automobile has increased the perils of wild life by 50 per cent, and thus far I have found no one who has contended that this figure is above the mark. It seems that the hunter of upland game—grouse, quail, woodcock, snipe, doves, rabbits, squirrels and deer—can by means of his new gasoline ally hunt at least four times as much ground in a day as a man behind a horse could exploit. On the other hand, the difference to the duck hunter is not so great, and so we think that 50 per cent is a fair batting average. I have seen four ruffed grouse hunters in an automobile duck hunt in one day an area of hunting ground that to me was fairly astounding.

"Wherever there are roads, either good or bad, or open plains, over which automobiles can travel, there will you find the automobile going after whatever game is afoot.

"It is not enough that the game-killer should have a bewildering array of assistants and accessories, consisting of professional guides and cooks, dogs, tents, rifles and limitless fixed ammunition to gain every conceivable advantage over the frightened bird and harassed wild animal. It is not enough that the machine guns spray pellets of lead like water from a hose sprinkler. It is not enough that the modern rifle kills big game at a quarter of a mile or more. It is not enough that the shrewd 'local guide' treacherously reveals the last hiding-place of the game that he has seen reared for cannon fodder around his own home.

"No. All these grossly unfair advantages seem not enough to pile against the harassed and bedeviled remnants of killable game. To them the speedy and tireless automobile must be added in order that the haunts of the game may be hunted over, not merely three or four times a season, but ten to twenty times perhaps.

"What shall be done about curbing the fearful destructiveness of the automobile? It is a difficult question, and already the deadly car must about double the hunter's daily kill of game."

Intending subscribers are reminded that qualified canvassers will carry official receipt forms which will be given wherever there is a donation. Canvassers will also carry pledge forms, so that any who are unable to subscribe a flat sum but wish to make their payments in instalments may testify on these forms what amount they are prepared to give in periodic payments.

During the past week an appeal was made to all the clergy of the city to make announcement of the Hospital campaign from the church pulpits today. Application was also made for the placing of boxes in the city schools, so that children could leave their little donations therein.

IRRIGATION PLANS

The chief thing that strikes the traveler in Southern Persia is the hopeless aridity of the country. On the horizon a line of hills extends, dimly blue in the heat haze that lies heavy on the land, and there he will find ample foliage and luxuriant valleys. But hardly any streams come down from those hills to the sea; only one real river, the Karun, which is one of the main arteries of trade, and flows down into the Shat el Arab at Mohammerah. Yet here and there are stretches of verdure and well-irrigated land. Rivers in Persia, that only require water to turn them from a desert into a cotton field or a rose garden.

These patches are the result of a system of irrigation so old that no man knows when it was constructed, or by what manner of people. Moreover, it is a system unique, I believe, in the East.

Along the Mesopotamian rivers, and even in Southern Persia, in the basin of the Karun, irrigation is a comparatively simple matter. It is of two kinds. Where the bank of the river is not too high, canals have been dug that strike out at right angles for a distance of three or four miles, and the end of them marks the beginning of the desert. Where the bank is high, a kind of semi-circular alcove is dug out of it, and wooden trestles on top support a rope from which dangles the hide of an ox, sewn together in the shape of a scoop. A donkey, an ox, a horse, or, it may be, the labor of human hands, works the pulley, and the scoop, on coming to the top, empties its cargo of water into a shallow irrigation ditch. That is the alphabet of irrigation.

But in this region, where there are no rivers at all, the problem is vastly different. The only water available is from springs in the distant hills—underground springs whose water flows unseen, no man knows whither. To dig deep canals down the slopes and into the plains would have been a labor of Hercules, so the ingenuity of the ancient Persians solved the problem in different fashion. Underground water tunnels, so made, down which the natural force of gravitation caused the water to flow. Their length depends on the elevation of the spring as compared with the level of the patch of plain to be irrigated, and varies roughly from five to ten miles.

All that is visible of these underground conduits, called "karez" by the Persians of today, is a series of earth mounds in a straight line, at an average distance of seventy-five yards from each other. These mounds are in no way essential to the system. They mark the outflow of earth dug up when the tunnel was made.

Shakespeare Credited With Literary Relic

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

It is believed that there has been discovered in the British Museum what may be the greatest literary relic in the world, namely, a holograph manuscript of William Shakespeare's. A comparison of the handwriting with the authentic signature of the poet to his will has convinced some experts that Shakespeare wrote the manuscript, which consists of 147 lines. Literary critics say that the quality of the lines itself strongly suggests that Shakespeare wrote them. The other circumstances point strongly to the probability of him having done so. Certainly he was alive at the time of the writing, and was likely to have been one of the half dozen men called in to do the work, which was nothing less than improving manuscript so that it might pass the censor of the time. The censor was old Sir Edmund Tilney and the MS. in question was "Sir Thomas More," a play by Anthony Munday. He found certain passages of which he did not approve, and apparently called in four of the leading writers of the day to cut them out and write the censor's approval. The MS. contains on the margin the censor's instructions.

Sounds Like Shakespeare

He bade them leave out the scene of an insurrection of the apprentices of London against foreigners when Sir Thomas More was Sheriff of London. The revisers were instructed to begin the play with "Sir Thomas More's session with a report afterward of his good service done, being Sheriff of London, upon the mutiny against the Lumbards, only by a short report and not otherwise at your own peril." But Shakespeare, who apparently corrected this scene, did not leave it out, but rewrote it, putting the mob in a bad light and giving the government all the better of it. Prof. C. F. Tucker Brooke, of Yale, a noted Shakespearean authority, says that the words in which More rebukes the mob are precisely what we should expect Shakespeare the man and dramatist to have used. "We have here," he says, "the same

British Empire and the Future

J. L. GARVIN, in London Sunday Observer

LET us be merry," said Mr. Pakenham, and took a captain's biscuit. As he mumbled hard tack, we can imagine him exulting upon the (iniquity of any government which should dare to increase by one little, were it but a farthing to the dozen, the price of captain's biscuits as cheerful and filling for the poor. The thought is not so harrowing, but that Sir John Simon can read our sympathies by a word. He tells us why more babies are born crying than ever before. He tells us why infants past the cradle are still weeping in our midst. The babies weep with instinctive apprehension. The children sob in bitter experience. Their lamentations are louder, as every mother knows, because they hear each other. And why is this? It is because their current bills will cost them more. A Cabinet of Tory vampires has done it with cruel subtlety of cunning. Bad as they are, they did not dare to attack the bitter direct. They were not bold enough to propose a plain bun-tax. No, ladies and gentlemen, what they did was to propose to surgents inside the bun; so that the very mothers were deceived until the sure feeling and cries of these little ones exposed the truth, as baby's determined noises may call attention to pin which even nurse had overlooked. The outraged boom of the whole female vote is in effect adjured to poll as one woman against it.

"Simon Stylites"

If what used to be called the fiscal controversy is to be revived in this spirit of petty clap-net and almost insane fudge, one of two things will happen. Either there will be no hope for the Empire and sufficient basis of recovery of employment or none for orthodox Liberalism and Sir John Simon. The preference on currants, as on other things, can go so far in reciprocity as the Dominions might wish. But no government whatever would dare to sweep away the principle altogether or to tamper with the modest but useful degree of practice now established.

We had hoped that Sir John would become a more considerable man instead of receding into the character of a partisan purveyor of the cheap clapnet. We know he does it for dogma and thinks himself incapable of being mistaken; but in that temper he can only earn the name of a political Simon Stylites fixed on the narrow top of his solitary pillar while the changed forces of economic life in the modern world flow past him. The influence of merely orthodox Liberalism is not the same in this country or in any other country as it was before the war. Never again can that influence be the same. If the tariff controversy, once more becomes a dominant issue, Sir John Simon will make the blunder of his career if he is led to imagine that the tone and tactics of the orthodox struggle after 1903 will have the same results in the future.

Employment—An equal competitive chance of British industry as a whole—the economics of Empire—these are going to be, as they were not twenty years ago, issues of plain life and death for every man and woman in the land. Liberalism may win by fresh arguments; never by the old. Catch-words stunts about the current will the ban will be regarded with no more respect than is usually associated with the thimble and the pea. If we are to have nothing more serious than "taxation, taxation"—without any deeper analysis of the relations between work and food—the jiggling monotony of these sewing-machine disquisitions will arouse little interest outside the shriven laboratories of the straiter sect of divided Liberalism. Men and women more and more would vote either Unionist or Labor, but they would give little heed to Simon Stylites calling from the top of the pillar in a thin unreal voice like the ghostly echoes of twenty years ago.

British Work and Tariff Barriers

This journal has always refused to make a fetish of either the peculiar creed to which our island clings or the country doctrine adopted by the overwhelming majority of mankind—including all the English-speaking communities except our own. The free fanaticism and almost mechanical distaste of the British for the free-import school are not more repugnant to us than the crude fallacies and vulgarizing temper of Protectionism as usually advocated.

Let us look at it. Free trade is a majestic theory. It hardly exists as of interest throughout the whole sphere of commerce. Free trade has been preached for nearly a century and a half since Adam Smith's sane and guarded masterpiece appeared. For three generations this country has offered a unique open market to all competitors while enjoying less and less free trade for it. We have waited for other nations to follow our example. There is no sign of imitation anywhere. Protection increases and multiplies on all hands. The degree of its prevalence after the war is the most striking evidence. The British self-governing Liberals and Socialists abroad have to compromise with it as soon as they come into practical contact with government. Wherever we turn our eyes, towards any point of the compass, we see a continual extension and raising of tariff barriers against the work of our hands by which we live.

The Fordney tariff in America is the highest Chinese wall yet. Reaction from it sooner or later will mean lower schedules, but nothing like free trade. The British self-governing Dominions are Protectionist. India no sooner obtained fiscal liberty than she became protectionist, and she will practice it more and more as self-governing progresses. This is what every competent thinker foresaw years ago. China sooner or later will follow suit and adopt Protection. Nothing on earth can prevent that development from coming as surely in the long run as it was bound to come for the Empire. The nations created or enlarged by the war have set up a network of new customs systems. Sir Alfred Mond's vision of inter-Imperial Free Trade is now, as empty, a dream as impossible, as ever mocked an able mind.

This is the spectacle of facts which meets our view when we survey the outside world. There is a rampant, nonstop, universal flourishing of protection. Half the economic scholarship of nations does not accept our own theory for truth nor our practice for wisdom. We ourselves have done more than any country to facilitate the spread of protection. By maintaining unconditional free trade we have deprived ourselves of all effective means of bargaining for lower tariffs and stipulating for definite concessions in return for the advantages we give. If we had such negotiating power in hand it would be an instrument of tremendous effect for political and economic purposes alike. The use, in our opinion, would be as beneficial as forbidding. It might be made a means of reducing armaments, as well as bridging down tariffs, and securing everywhere broad more consideration for our policy.

New Conditions

Thus we maintain free imports under the growing and unexampled disadvantages for our employment and our exports. The area of real free trade has been contracting until it has become a vanished quantity. We are loaded with taxation like no other country. That burden has largely been incurred to purchase the increased power or new liberty of nations who are proceeding to strengthen or spread protectionist systems. By having to bear ourselves the huge war debts that other peoples refuse to repay we are relieving those peoples from taxation, and in reality we are subsidizing their competition as well as their armaments. We are doing this to the direct injury of our own manufacture and employment. It is one of the strangest things in economic history, but it is one of the potent economic facts of today. We are going to be faced, day by day, at home and abroad, by a fiercer pressure of competition than has ever been known.

We have already an unparalleled mass of unemployment. If that cannot be largely remedied by other means within the next few years, we believe that free imports will prove impossible to maintain. We believe that the working-classes themselves will refuse to maintain it, or to continue giving a free market to Protectionist nations unless these begin to lower their tariffs and give a freer market to the work by which we live. We believe that any Simon Stylites of economic dogma will find his mind to be twenty years behind the circumstances. We are not now arguing the theory. We are offering our judgment as to actual probabilities in regard to a matter which has long engaged our reflections, but on which we have thought it premature to write. We feel sure that the Conservative Party by itself cannot hope to solve this problem and would be shipwrecked by any precipitate attempt. We think that the orthodox Liberalism will never face this problem and will dwindle in consequence. We think that the Labor Party, after fierce internal controversy, will grapple with the thing in the end, and will settle it in the temper of Australia.

After the war we ardently hoped for the systematic promotion of freer trade as an aid to peace. Not an effective policy has been lifted in the world for the advancement of that purpose. Tariffs are as much worse than before the war as armaments are worse. What is more, we are not only offering an unconditional and unreciprocated open market to foreign nations; we are offering it to foreign monopolies, rings, trusts and syndicates, whose operations are the organized negation of competitive equality as Adam Smith and Cobden imagined it. Tariffs will never begin to come down unless Britain sets to work to bring them down by resuming some contingent power of restriction and exclusion in order to secure better terms for the work whereby we live. That this is going to become a principal issue not only of domestic but of international politics is now more like the development or not—we have very little doubt.

Take the Empire-market first. There could be no more prodigious and yet unnecessary error than to set up a false antithesis between the Empire and the world in general, or to suggest a particular antagonism between our imperial interests and those on the one hand, and our European interests on the other. For the sake

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, they say, is the cry of fashion and society. And the over-riding desire, driving the unwise and unwieldy, is to get thin. They are not alone in their desire, but they are alone in their method. They are using the Marmala Prescription. It is a safe, reliable, and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with a sweeter skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmala Prescription Tablets from the same famous formula as the Marmala Prescription. It involves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a box or sending a like amount to the Marmala Prescription Co., 4415 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail you a box of Marmala Prescription Tablets.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly one-half of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, flatulence, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food accumulates, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try taking Marmala Prescription Tablets. They are a powerful, yet gentle, and safe remedy. They are a few ounces of Marmala Prescription Tablets and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This soothes the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Campaign to Raise $125,000 for Jubilee Hospital

(By G. R. Altres Coley)

A little time ago, the eighth century was celebrated in London of an event of warmer interest than most of the happenings of eight centuries ago. Eight centuries, it will be remembered, carries us back to the days when the first Henry, son of the Iron Conqueror, ruled in English land. This Henry had a jester whose name was Raheere, whose business it was to keep the king good-tempered—no small public service when an irritated monarch would think little more of saying "Off with his head!" than the Red Queen did—and between whiles no doubt he deftly wrapped a wholesome truth in the sugar of a jest. How far Raheere was a fool and how far a wise man, how successfully he would have passed the mental tests of modern science, we cannot tell, but Raheere's monumental deed, for which he is remembered after eight centuries, links him with human-kind in a very warm fellow-feeling. For the court jester fell sick, and during his sickness a lively sympathy for fellow-sufferers must have been kindled within him, for on his recovery he showed his gratitude to a merciful Creator for restored health by building a hospital where the destitute sick could at least be sheltered and fed. Raheere's hospital was the humble beginning of the mighty institution familiar to all Londoners—the great St. Bartholomew's.

The story of the wise humorist who could learn sympathy for the unfortunate from his own experiences should surely awaken an answering chord in the heart of every man and woman in this town, this week especially, when the opportunity is being given of sharing in the building of a new hospital that is so long overdue. It is true one almost envies the fortunate Raheere, for in a day when doctors were serenely ignorant of such terms as antiseptics and anaesthetics, when one knife was as good as another for cutting off a gangrenous limb, and the patient stood it the best way he could, when an X-ray machine would most certainly have been considered to be the work of the Powers of Darkness, building a hospital was a simple matter, well within the means of any moderately well-to-do citizen. Today building a hospital is an enterprise that only a millionaire can touch, or, and this is infinitely the better alternative, it can be the concrete expression of the gratitude, the sympathy and the public spirit of a large number of people of lesser means. No, on second thoughts one need not envy Raheere. Scarcely anyone has been so removed from the common lot of humanity as not to know the weariness of pain and sickness, everyone realizes by contrast the supreme blessing that vigor and health is, and surely everyone appreciates how much is due to the skill and care that is associated with modern hospitals for the alleviation of pain and the healing of diseases. Therefore the present campaign for the completion of the first part of the new Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital will be gladly welcomed by many as a means of giving practical evidence of their deepest feelings.

A Proud Building

The new building, let it be added, has been splendidly begun. Already it has reached a stage that should produce a thrill of pride in all those who have a part in its erection.

When the new building is completed, set among the fine parks and extensive grounds that have always given the Jubilee Hospital the unrivalled charm of an almost sylvan retreat, Victoria will possess a public institution worthy of her traditions of beauty and dignity.

The east wing, now under construction, though still far from completion, already seems to be possessed of character and soul. Whether it is the wide, direct corridor which on each floor traverses the building, or the great ranges of windows looking east, south and west upon the lovely views for which our city is famous, or whether it is the evident efficiency of arrangement and the attractiveness of such finished details as may already be seen, or whether it is all these things together, the fact remains that the new hospital is already a living thing irradiating an atmosphere of cheer and hope.

The shape of the interior arrangement is like the letter T, the stem of the letter being the single wide corridor that terminates at the southern end in a glorious sunroom and which meets a transverse corridor at its northern end. Near where the two corridors meet are the elevator shafts, which are thus located in the most central part. On either side of the long corridor are private rooms, while the shorter corridor at the north end communicates with wards and various other rooms for different purposes. This arrangement is the same on each floor, and a visit once to the top floor will give a good idea of what the other floors will be like when finished, for very wisely the top floor is being finished first, which, of course, is the most expeditious way. Here on the top floor, then, one may see the oak flooring in the private rooms already laid, and finished. Perfect flooring it is with a beautiful grain and laid over narrow joists that are embedded in the solid concrete. The doors also on this floor are finished. They are absolutely plain and finished in a light walnut tone through which the hardwood grain shows pleasingly. Some of the private rooms are in pairs en suite, with a bathroom between the two, connected by a small private passage, but in any case there is a bathroom for every three or four rooms. The baths are luxuriously massive affairs, each looking as though cut out of a solid block of stone.

A Holiday in Bed

A diet kitchen, chart room and other utilities complete the private section on each floor. Apart from these few accessory rooms, the private section has more the appearance of a first-class hotel than a hospital. It will also occur to the visitor who inspects the wards and private rooms and sees from the windows the wide expanse of glorious views, and who remembers too the generous allowance of bright sunshine which prevails in Victoria, and which, as doctors all agree, is so valuable to the restoration of health, that such a delightful place in which to indulge in "a holiday in bed," as some cheerful sufferer termed it, will attract many patients from other places to Victoria's new hospital.

Differing only in size and consequent absence of privacy, but not one jot less attractive in aspect, are the various wards in each floor.

THE MISSING SPOKE

NO sane man would, for one moment, risk his life in a car one wheel of which had a missing spoke; common sense would tell him that that wheel would break under the first stress or strain. Again and again the modern city has been compared to a wheel—a city revolves round its hub of community interest, radiating out from which are its spokes of religion, public hospitals, education, public libraries, social welfare, business, pleasure, law and order. If any one of these spokes is weak or lacking the wheel cannot function properly, and the life of the whole community is adversely affected. Now, in Victoria, the public hospital spoke is weak and unable to carry the strain put upon it. Therefore, the citizens decided in 1912, to build a new hospital worthy of our beautiful city. $125,000 are needed to finish this building, and so give Victoria a public hospital that will be second to none in medical equipment and capacity. This sum of money will put the hospital completely out of debt. As this is a community effort you are privileged to help, and so that you may do so, a canvasser will call on you personally during the course of the next few days. Meanwhile, make a point of going and looking over the new building today; it is open to the public in the daytime. It may also very well be that you know of some friend or neighbor whom you think would also like to help but who has not yet been solicited. If so, please ring up, in confidence—phone 2470 or 2471.

These occupy the extreme ends of the transverse north corridor, and consequently have the advantage of two exposures, east and south and west and south, respectively, with abundance of sunshine as a consequence. One wonders which one would choose if necessary, the east ward, where the sun, with its glad morning face, can be seen mounting the sky over the blue rim of the Straila beyond Oak Bay, or the west ward, where he can be seen sinking in golden splendor beyond the violet Sooke hills. Besides these larger wards of sixteen beds, there are also smaller wards, observation rooms and all the accessory rooms necessary to the functioning of a modern hospital, and in no essential respect will the public differ from the private section.

From the professional point of view, possibly the series of operating rooms will awaken the most enthusiasm. These are situated on the top floor in order to gain the advantage of skylight as well as side lighting. Situated along the north corridor, they have the advantage of a northern exposure, which apparently is as favorable to surgery as it is to art. There are six operating rooms, which may seem a surprising number to the uninitiated, but when one is informed that one is for dental work, two for eye, ear, nose and throat treatment, two for major operations and one for septic cases, the usefulness of all the rooms will be appreciated. Accessory to the operating rooms is the anaesthetic room, where the patient can comfortably take the anaesthetic undisturbed by the sight of any fearsome suggestions of the impending operation, sterilizing and instrument rooms, a surgeon's consulting room and scrub-rooms.

Super-Cleanliness

Scrub-room, be it noted, is the technical word. But let not the untutored imagination run to baseless scenes in which pails and mops and scrubbing brushes are familiar details. To "scrub" in the surgical sense is to render one's person as innocuous as possible to the patient undergoing a surgical operation. Life itself depends upon a super-cleanliness to which ordinary life offers no parallel. That surgical instruments are clean in the sense of the most scrupulously kept kitchen is not enough; they must be sterile, absolutely free from menacing germs which would speedily ruin the surgeon's best work. Sterilized gowns, shoes, rubber gloves and everything else that comes within the immediate surroundings of the operating table must likewise be similarly innocuous, while the attendant nurses must resign the distracting thoughts of the front-pieces of pretty hands as they diligently scrub them in strong disinfectants to comply with the demands of modern science. One feels one would swank unbecomingly if one were entrusted with the charge of the room, so far removed from the ordinary understanding, and it is a delightful instance of professional modesty and humor that the whole impressive ceremonial is designated by the humble and familiar operations of the charlady.

The whole of the floor below the operating department is to be devoted to maternity cases and containing in private and public sections thirty-four beds in all; it would seem that the amplest provision is being made for future small citizens. Gone, of course, beyond recall are the days when the picture of some humble cottage is the frontpiece of the biography of some famous man or woman with the legend beneath, "Birthplace of—" the subject in question. The biography of the future instead will show an imposing and palatial institution that a prince might be proud to own as his birthplace. So proud parents who believe that the downy-headed morsel in the incredibly small pink and white basket is one day to be praised with famous men—and what parent does not believe this?—should prudently make sure of the front-pieces photograph. No doubt arrangement will be made by the authorities of the hospital to supply this demand. This much is certain, no hero of the past stands a better chance for life, nor it may be ventured, received so good a start in life as babies that will be cared for in the sunny nurseries that are now being prepared for their royal use. It is perhaps unnecessary to extend the description of the new hospital any further. When one remembers the ample provision made for every thing that reduces suffering to the lowest minimum, and on the contrary to make the experience as pleasant as it is possible to make it, it is obvious that the new building in the familiar grounds of the Jubilee Hospital is an object of personal and direct interest to every citizen in Victoria. But it must not be forgotten that notwithstanding the many patent inconveniences in arrangement of what we must now call with affectionate regret the old hospital, the Jubilee Hospital already stands for all that is highest and best in hospital work and ranks high in the hierarchy of hospitals on the American continent. The new building will add to the convenience of operating and the greater comfort of the staff of nurses who have so loyally and efficiently done their duty under the disadvantages of the older place, but all the essentials to the most modern hospital practice already exist in the institution. For example, does every citizen of Victoria know that the Jubilee Hospital is equipped with a deep therapy X-ray machine of 250-000 volts, the only deep therapy machine west of Toronto and one of only three in the whole of Canada?

X-Ray Department

The X-ray department, in fact, at the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital is one of which all Victorians should be extremely proud, under the able management of Dr. Warren. Perhaps nothing could so vividly convey to the lay mind the elaborate machinery of modern science in the age-long battle with disease as a visit to the X-ray department. Passing by the complication of emotions consequent upon the experiment by which the bones of one's hand are with disconcerting frankness revealed to one's view as a simple preliminary exhibition of what X-rays can do, one is shown plates and records which demonstrate finally and beyond cavil the importance of X-ray investigations. Thus one is shown a plate that reveals the source of the trouble in one case as an ulcer at the low outlet of the stomach. Possibly the question has occurred how the digestive tract can be distinguished from the rest of the surrounding tract. But there seems to be a way out of every difficulty. By administering to the patient a draught, usually of buttermilk, into which barium sulphate has been stirred, the digestive tract is filled with a metal through which the rays do not pass and which reveals the tract in dim white upon a dark ground of the surrounding area. It is then a simple matter for the practiced eye to detect in shadowy markings on the white what is probably the seat of the trouble, which can be rendered certain by subsequent tests.

It can readily be understood that such an important department as this is kept very fully employed. The staff consists of three lady assistants, including a stenographer, who is kept busily employed with the records. In this section also is kept the precious radium, which the Jubilee Hospital possesses, worth a very considerable sum. Seen in the glass container, these dull-looking bits of metal very like fragments of the lead in a pencil and about the length of a gramophone needle, it is simply an impossible feat for the imagination to grasp that each piece is worth more than one thousand dollars. But the really impressive part of the department is the deep therapy machine, which is placed on stout steel supports over a stretcher and raised in an enormously heavy casing of copper and lead to prevent the rays from escaping except at the proper outlet, which is focused upon the diseased portion to be treated. Great reliance being placed upon this treatment for cancer, and certainly if the utmost that modern skill and ingenuity can contrive is effective against this dread disease, it is summed up in this wonderful machine.

And perhaps one may leave this invention as marking the distance that science has traveled since the days when Raheere's simple structure was called a hospital. If it is not permitted to science to abolish pain and sickness, it has at least robbed it of its terrors, and any demand upon the people of Victoria to assist in this meritorious work must surely meet with a ready and enthusiastic response.

A GREAT NAVAL CRUISE

The round-the-world voyage of the battleship Hood and accompanying cruiser squadron, which starts from England this month, suggests a return to an old order in the British navy. British warships of such power have not of late years been knocking around the world ports as much as once was the case. Besides the great Channel and Mediterranean squadrons, another had headquarters at Halifax and cruised regularly from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to South America. The Chinese Sea was the field of activity for another strong visit to the Pacific Coast of Central and South America. There were vessels on duty in Indian waters, and a force of some strength was stationed at Cape Town. There were few places in the ocean which, in case of need, British warships capable of effective action could not reach within a short time. Then came Admiral Fisher's reorganization and a scrapping of many old and weak ships, and the concentration in home waters and the North Sea of the strong vessels of the navy. That outlying parts of the Empire, and other countries, should not think the navy was weakening because it was seldom seen, a flying squadron of cruisers under Prince Louis of Battenberg was sent on an extensive cruise, "to show the flag." A little later came the Great War; and all the world learned of the navy through its work in the seven seas. Peace and disarmament pacts have reduced the number of capital ships as well as the number of their crews. Those who see the Hood and its attendant squadron will understand that, though the number of first-class fighting craft in the navy is curtailed, the power of those that remain has not fallen off. The Hood is a vessel of 41,500 tons measurement. It has the speed and maneuvering capacity of a battleship, and the fighting power of a cruiser and represents the latest great fighting machines turned out of British building yards. The cruise includes visits to South Africa, Singapore, Australia and New Zealand, a voyage to British Columbia, and then by the Panama Canal to Halifax and Quebec, which latter place is intended to be reached in September next. The cruise will be a memorable one, and will let a good part of the world see that Britain's sea power is still something of meaning.—Montreal Gazette.

Machine Separates Oil From Water

BIRKENHEAD, England.—A new marine oil separator, which promises to save much money, was recently demonstrated here. Oil and water pumped from a ship's bilge pass through the machine, and by a certain process the oil is returned to the vessel's tanks and the water to the sea. Beside saving fuel, the practice will reduce the danger of oil fires on the water of harbors and rivers.

Great New Drydock Now Building Here Soon to Be Ready

Mammoth Esquimalt Work Taking Definite Shape—End of Undertaking in Sight—Will Be Docking Ocean Liners in Little More Than Twelve Months, Builders Expect

GREAT BASIN TO CARE FOR SHIPS BY TWOS AND THREES

SOME months ago, when the White Star liner Majestic, the world's biggest ship, had need of repairs and overhaul, the owners of the great vessel searched in vain about the British Isles for a place in which to dock her. Not a drydock under the British flag was ample enough in its dimensions to accommodate the huge liner, and no recourse was left but to send her, much to the chagrin of British shipping, to the mammoth Common-wealth drydock at Boston, U.S.A., the largest ship basin in the world and the only one in the world able to receive the giant steamer.

No such limited choice will be before the Majestic, however, in years to come. At St. John, N.B., a fortnight ago, a big drydock was opened by the Canadian government, capable of handling the big liner with ease at Southampton, meanwhile, a great floating dock is being constructed fully as big in purpose, and, finally, Esquimalt's big drydock, which, when completed, will take second place in size only to the Boston basin, will be of scope fully as great. Should the Majestic or any of her giant companions of the Atlantic ever stray into the Pacific, she will find the largest drydock on the Pacific Ocean at Esquimalt able to take care of her, and able of the dock is now under way. Turn-of-the-century pits for the electric traveling crane for use in ship repair work are completed.

The concrete landing wharf outside the drydock, and the fill behind it, are now finished with the exception of a small portion at the inner end, which cannot be completed until the temporary cofferdam enclosing the work has been removed.

The execution of the whole work has involved the installation of an enormous amount of plant, including steam shovels, locomotives, cars, derricks, railway tracks, machine shops, air and water pipe lines, a concrete mixing plant and a stone cutting plant. The entire cost of this equipment was considerably over $500,000.

The concrete plant consists of a large derrick for handling sand and gravel from scows into hoppers, a cement shed with a tramway to the mixing plant, and two large Smith concrete mixers, etc.

A Remarkable Plant
The stone cutting plant is one of the best establishments of its kind in Canada, and is one of the most interesting features of the entire work. It was erected to cut the granite, which will be placed in the work, into proper sizes from the huge blocks which are brought from Nelson Island. There

Looking Down on the Drydock From Among the Clouds

A close-up of the Esquimalt work from the air, looking west, as it appeared recently. The dividing wall between the inner and outer sections has since been removed and the excavation now consists of one great hole. In this distance, to the left, is seen the granite cutting plant with its pile of stone. To the right, the concrete mixing plant is visible. The space between the granite yard and the wall has been filled in since the photo was taken. The extensive concrete mixing plant installed to handle the 128,000 cubic yards of concrete that will be poured into the dock to form its floor and walls now stands on the reclaimed area.

to do so with plenty of room to spare. As for the lesser leviathans already plying Pacific waters, Esquimalt will take care of them in twos and threes. The 427-foot length of the Empress of Canada, the biggest steamer at present on the Pacific, will dwindle to insignificant proportions when encased by the concrete walls soon to rise in the neighboring harbor. The Princess Charlotte will be able to float in behind her and will there be no space left. A few Island Princesses will have to be jammed in as well before the dock will appear really full. Progress on the $4,000,000 Esquimalt undertaking has now reached the stage when its appearance is enough to indicate its big purpose. The big hole begun many months ago has been blasted and hewn from the cliff on the one side and reclaimed from the sea on the other to such extent that it has reached its full growth size in minor places, and the end of the project begins to be in sight. By this time next year there will be little remaining undone; and by the early months of 1925, according to Mr. J. P. Forde, district engineer of the Dominion Department of Public Works, who is supervising the construction, it will probably be ready for vessels.

When It Will Open
"At the present time," said Mr. Forde yesterday, "it is impossible to set a date for the opening. It is hoped, however, to have it ready for operation early in 1925."

The work has now proceeded to the point where almost the entire basin has been excavated, and it is the intention of the contractors to start pouring the concrete about December 1. There will be over 100,000 cubic yards of concrete in the floor and the walls, and the pouring of it is anticipated, will take something under a year.

The contract for the power-house and all pumping and auxiliary machinery has been let, and a start will be made this week on excavation necessary for the pumps, and for the tunnels leading from the dock to the pumps and from the pumps to the sea. A Vancouver firm, Hodgson, King & Marlin, are supplying this machinery.

1,500-Ton Gates
The large steel ship caissons or gates, with which the dock will be closed and subdivided as necessary, each of which will weigh approximately 1,500 tons, are now being designed. They will be equipped with electric pumps and electric cables, and will be self-operating.

The excavating necessary for the placing of the nine large electric caissons for handling ships in and out are two circular saws which revolve in opposite directions to the circular saws of the lumber mills. That is to say, the backs of the teeth of these saws, instead of the points of the teeth, do the cutting, or rather the backs of the teeth are used to rub very hard steel shot against the stone. This shot is afterwards caught in a trench between the saws and elevated for use over and over again. While the saws are working jets of water are playing on them constantly, to keep them from getting red-hot, which they otherwise would do. Each saw

Esquimalt's $6,000,000 Dock as It Looks Today

This photograph, the latest to be taken of the drydock work, shows the undertaking virtually as it appears at the present time. The dividing wall between the inner and outer sections, built to facilitate construction, has been dug away, and one great hollow with a length of more than 1,100 feet remains, dug from the solid rock on the one side—the right—and reclaimed from the harbor on the other. The solid forming the right hand side of the dock in the photograph is about 400 or 500 feet in height. The picture was taken from the inner end of the basin, where the pouring of the concrete will begin about the first of next month.

will cut a length of from six to seven feet per hour through a block of granite four feet in thickness. From the saws the stone goes to the stone cutters, where it is dressed and trimmed ready for placing in drydock. Dressed granite to the amount of 255,000 cubic feet will go into the dock in the form of keel and bilge feet, while the depth on the sill will be 30 feet at extreme low water or 40 feet at high tide. Although intended to be a counterpart of the big dock built at St. John, N.B., it will probably have the advantage of a foot or two over that basin owing to the exigencies of construction.

The P. Lyall & Sons Construction Co. of Montreal, have the main contract for the construction of the dock and the landing stage, their sub-contractors for the excavation and concrete being the Pacific Construction Company of Vancouver and Victoria. Associated with Mr. Forde in the supervision of the undertaking is W. A. Goulet, senior assistant engineer of the Department of Public Works, who is resident engineer on the work.

The P.G.E. Railway

Sir.—Will you kindly grant me space to make some remarks on the above project? I saw by your issue of last Thursday the member for Fort George urges completion of the road to Prince George. He states that already $45,000,000 have been spent on this enterprise, and gives that as one reason why the line should be extended there. But let me ask the member for Fort George, what has the country around there to offer by way of inducement to extend the line to Prince George (although I kept my eyes wide open) I never saw one single acre in crop of any kind, nor the least sign of settlement anywhere. Indeed, miles before we reached Prince George, the line runs through swamps and muskegs, and on the higher levels, sand and gravel, all of which was absolutely valueless from an agricultural point of view. There are scrubby spruce, cedars and birch in the swamps, and jack pine and poplar on the drier land, all small with the exception of some what larger cottonwood trees, growing around water holes.

On reaching Prince George I noticed a very large area had been cleared and burned over, and nothing but the small stumps were to be seen in any direction; not a patch in crop was to be seen. The G.T.P. station I saw any stock of any kind; indeed, they would have been starved to death, as there was no sign of grass to be seen. The G.T.P. station is situated near the junction of the Nechaco with the Fraser River. The country is flat and level, and the soil is gravel and sand, and, in my opinion, worthless for farming purposes. One man got on the train at Prince George. He told me afterwards that he was an accountant from Edmonton.

ton, who had been sent there to audit the books of an hotel which had gone bankrupt. And this is the kind of country to which the member for Fort George is urging the government to extend the P.G.E.; a barren wilderness with no products of any kind grown by way of an inducement.

At the time the McGibbin Government hatched that scheme, an election was pending, and at a public meeting held here the late Mr. Patterson, acknowledged to be one of the best authorities on railway matters in the Province, condemned this project and stated it would plunge this country into debt and would never pay. The Liberals while in opposition were in the corridors, and never missed an opportunity to talk against this scheme. But what do we find them doing when they got in power? Firstly, to engage the services of three experts to go up the line and make their report. The result was all three condemned it and advised the government to scrap the thing. But it does not at present appear that they intend to be advised by those experts.

For the whole concern, Mr. Oliver! You must surely know by this time it is a regular sink hole for the monies of the taxpayers of the Province, and to the point. If you don't choose to take the advice of those experts sent by you, depend upon it, the voters in British Columbia will scold you and your government at the next election. What the P.G.E. has been to British Columbia the Grand Trunk Pacific (so far as the line in British Columbia is concerned) is a monument of reckless expenditure and want of foresight of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government. No wonder this railway has bankrupted the whole Grand Trunk system in Canada, so that the government has taken it under their wing. Going through the Bulkley during the night, I had no chance to see anything of that country, but beyond that night through to the pass is, according to my knowledge, the most worthless country I ever travelled through.

Chinese Gardeners
Sir.—Having paid several visits to the Potato Exhibition, I wish to express my great appreciation of the same, and also of the credit due to Mr. Tice. It is truly a great step in advance, the shows what can be done by the white potato growers in this Province.

It would be quite impossible for any of the Chinese growers to come anywhere near such a show, and they know it. Why, then, are some of us being driven out by their competition?

They cannot, and do not, either raise as large or as good crops of potatoes or any other vegetable as we can. But they put it all over us in distribution.

A Chinaman will come to your door in the morning and sell you five cents worth of potatoes or any other vegetable and carry them right into your kitchen. He brings his goods right to you!

You don't have to go to his store and order them to be sent next day, or telephone him and take a chance on what will be delivered.

You see what he has and get from him as much or as little as you like, and he is pleased to serve you, and you see the kids running out and chaffing with him, and his regular and unfailing arrival at the same time. Every week or so there is one of the events that is looked forward to by them. The white bakers and milkmen deliver from house to house at regular hours. Why don't the white vegetable and fruit growers do the same thing? Mere inefficiency and lack of co-operative skill.

Note that the Chinese who deliver these goods are not the ones who grow them. They buy from the Chinese growers and also from the white growers of some lines and resell at a small profit. Their prices are always governed by those charged in the white stores, and by an agreement amongst themselves they just undersell the white dealers, and take advantage of delivery and personal canvass and solicitation for orders. There seemed to be more discussion over this question of Chinese competition than over the quality of the goods amongst the visitors at the show. One man said the Chinese were better gardeners than the whites because they were gardening when we were running around in the woods dressed in blue paint. So they were, and no doubt they were about as good then as they are now, and so they will be probably in another thousand years. If they really were better than we are, we should send our sons over to China to learn the business, and scorn the instructions of such men as Mr. Tice. Are there any books on gardening and plant breeding translated from Chinese for our benefit?

Where are the Chinese Burbanks and Halleys and Suttons and Carters and Burpees and Hilliards and Eckfords and Spencers and de Vries and Fernets and Cants and Dicksons, and so on in an endless list?

Where are the Chinese Plant Junior implements? What artificial manures have they provided? Did they give us potatoes, or do they get them from us? Do we get our seeds from them? Where are their apples and oranges? They have been at it a much longer time than we have, yet what progress are they making? As for their work, how long would these Chinese laborers last in the truck gardens around London and in France and Holland? Not two hours. The Chinese invented or discovered gunpowder long before us. What did they do with it? Made fireworks! They had fine sailing junks when we were poling about in coracles, but they still use the same junks, while we have something a little better and growing still better.

If the white gardeners would get the best seeds in the world (locally grown) and arrange their distribution to suit their customers instead of themselves, they could beat the Chinese out of sight in short order.

School Finance

Sir.—I read with very great interest Mr. Lineham's letter, which, as is usual with him, is straight from the shoulder and to the point. There is no question of any kind that the city cannot afford to pay the present enormous expenses, and the sooner everyone realises this the better. It is absolutely out of the question to keep the city going with the present enormous expenditure on schools. I was informed the other day by one of the city councillors, who has gone carefully into the matter, that the same amount was spent on schools as the total expenditure of the city for everything else; Police, fire, roads, boulevards, street cleaning, sewers and all civic expenditures, with the exception of fixed charges, such as interest on debentures, etc. Now you have come to an absurdity at once.

I am a very strong believer in education, but I am not a believer in boys or men of 18 or 19 going in for the high school course, who are only going to follow a trade. Such a course only spoils a good workman, I have frequently advertised for boys to help on my farm during the past few years, but cannot get them; they are all educated above it. The ranks of would-be clerks are quite overfilled, so much so that most of these have to go away to find work, but we cannot get anyone here who wants to work on a farm, bricklayers, carpenters, etc., are getting far higher wages on the Coast than most of the clerks.

Now about our taxes: More land is reverting to the city every year, and the taxes on the balance are increasing till no one will want to hold land, and it will have little or no value, as is to a great extent the case at present. It is a great pity to have to say such things, but we cannot go on as we are at present. Taxation must come down and if the School Board will not see what they are doing to the city, they must be made to, and the quicker that is done the better. A property would possibly not be bound to give them much, it would certainly be something on a very small scale. Why will the Board not see it? If taxation does not come down, more and more property will revert till the city comes to the point I have mentioned.

The city absolutely cannot stand at this time the present expenditure of the School Board. There is no question about one thing: Land in Victoria will not stand the taxes that the present Council is endeavoring to collect from it. Either wholesale reduction has to be made in our expenditures or else other wholly different sources of income from the city must be found. At present these are not apparent, so the former is our only course.

There should be no real quarrels about the future of the city, look at the confidence the C. P. R. (one of the shrewdest and best organizations in the world), has in our city, and if the Government will improve our island roads, conserve some of the marvellous scenic timber, extend the present roads and connect Campbell River Road, via Buttle Lake, with Alberni, we will have a tourist business unequalled anywhere. This is one of our great futures; lots of these people will settle here. In the meantime we must cut down our expenditures to an enormous extent, be satisfied with an ordinary education and cut out most of the frills. I see that the School Board for Oak Bay wants a $150,000 high school put up, when property there is already taxed to the limit. This thing has to stop. Put on these Boards' larger property holders, who have to pay some of these charges, and you will see a different tone adopted.

Beautifying Cemetery

Sir.—In your editorial of November 9 about the cemetery, you say that the Natural History Society has taken up the subject of beautifying with trees and shrubs that portion of the cemetery, Dallas Road. Why not continue all around the cemetery? It would form a wind break in time? I cannot see any reason to have any doubt about trees growing along the road skirting the waterfront. When I used to live in my old home, which was built in the eastern portion of Ross Bay cemetery, in 1848, long before there was any thought of buying it for cemetery purposes, trees used to grow down to high water mark, and, in fact, there were some 50 feet high on the top of the bank that stood against the old cemetery fence, and also trees were growing in the western portion from the cemetery house, lately taken down, to what we used to call "Lovers' Lane," and where the old men's home used to stand.

I may say I am pleased to think someone has taken some interest in the cemetery, where so many of our old friends are buried. I think the city or parks committee only need to try again in the right way and it would have some success.

Importation of Plants

Sir.—At intervals lately in your correspondence columns a tirade has appeared directed at the new Dominion Horticultural Regulations Act. There is a way to look at these regulations other than from the pessimistic viewpoint employed in these letters.

The horticultural trade of Canada is entitled to protection from the foreign catalogues with which the country is flooded. If these contained anything better than can be bought in Canada there might be some reason for allowing them to monopolize our trade, but outside of the standard list that are practically the same everywhere, they are specialized advertisements.

It is only a rare interval that a horticultural product of outstanding merit appears, and as the "trade" is supplied before it reaches the retail catalogue it can be procured and at home as from a foreign firm, and often in better condition and at a much lower price.

If a horticultural firm wishes to import a foreign specialty it should be willing to comply with the regulations, and the very same applies to the informed amateur. There is no sense in allowing the present flood of trash to enter the country uncontrolled. Our own firms are being starved to death because a gullible public believes the unbecoming contained in many of these foreign catalogues, and anything in reason that will keep the trade at home and at the same time safeguard the public should be welcomed. It is simply another application of patronage home industry.

Mr. King faces the Setting Sun unafraid

Though disabled at 59 in an automobile accident and forced as a consequence to take a light-duty job that will barely provide for his wife and two children, Mr. King faces the future calmly.

Twenty-two years ago he took out a twenty payment life policy with the North American Life Assurance Company. That policy has now matured and he will never have to pay another cent on it.

"What a wonderful thing to have had such a policy," he said to a representative of the Company, "I could not afford to pay premiums now, yet my family has full protection."

Our Twenty Payment Life policy has many attractive features that it will pay you too, to know about. Write for our booklet which gives complete information.

Christendom the World Over

A Weekly Review of Religious News

Now that the British troops have left Constantinople and the Turks are in complete possession of the city that has been for centuries the ecclesiastical headquarters of the Greek Orthodox Church, the Turkish authorities are proceeding to crush this church. Meletios IV, the Archbishop of Constantinople, has been in exile for several months at Mount Athos, in Greece. Six Metropolitan bishops in Constantinople have been placed under arrest. The Turkish Orthodox Church has been organized, whose officials, according to The Church Times, were practically appointed by the Turkish authorities, and in whose services Turkish will take the place of Greek. The outlook for Christianity in Turkey, according to the correspondent of The Times, is extremely dark.

The Passion Play Is Not Coming
The newspaper rumors that the Christians of Ober-Ammergau are going to take their Passion Play to the United States are vigorously denied by Anton Lang, who impersonates Christ in the play. In a letter received in England he writes: "The safety of food grows more and more terrible here. We are compelled to send our workers abroad that they may exhibit and sell their works. But our Passion Play—never."

President Coolidge Joins the Church
Although since an adherent of the Congregational Church, President Coolidge was not enrolled as a member until last month, when he joined the First Congregational Church, Washington, where he took communion on the first Sunday after his inauguration. Rev. J. Nason Pierce, D.D., is the President's pastor. One of the leading morning dailies, after having made up its front page with headlines announcing the results of the international horse race, transcribed the horse race to the sporting page and gave the President's confession of his faith in Christ the first place.

C. O. P. E. C.
C. O. P. E. C. is what might be called the bible code of a unique conference to be held in Birmingham, England, April 6-12 of next year. This is the "Conference of Christian Politics, Economics and Citizenship." Leaders of all the British denominations, including Bishops Baynes and Gore, Moderators D. S. Cairns and G. Millis, Dr. P. C. Garvie and Professor Moberly, unite in a manifesto describing the coming conference as a spiritual adventure, a search for the will of God in modern life. The complexities of civilization demand more and more pressing the application of the spirit of Jesus. Commissioners are at work upon the various subjects, and Dr. Herbert Gray is promoting the "Auxiliary Movement," which is described as a comradeship of men and women who are convinced that the Kingdom of God as declared by Jesus is the basis of the Christian life. The members try to see the other man's point of view.

A Playwright Preaches to Millions
Channing Pollock, the playwright, has probably the largest audience of any preacher in the world. His play, "The Fool," which was born of a reading of the gospels, is now presented nightly by seven companies. Mr. Pollock read the New Testament for the first time only twelve years ago, having been influenced by the assertion of a fellow-playwright that the Bible must be a useful book, since Shakespeare made generous use of it. His current dramatic endeavors to carry the gospel message on present modern questions.

Towards a Native Church
A native East Indian of the Tamil race, Bishop Roche, is the first native priest of the Latin rite to be raised to diocesan rank, and the head of a diocese, native from top to bottom. This is the first step in the "Indianization" of the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church, the foundation for which was laid by Pope Leo XIII when he created in Malabar twenty-two years ago the separate of the Syrian rite. This action keeps step with the growing recognition by the Protestant missionaries of the indigenous churches of India, China and Japan.

Movements in American Methodism
The Christian Century finds in present-day American Methodism an unorganized determination to curb the legions toward official domination, and to restore the pastoralate a measure of initiative and freedom which it has not recently felt that it enjoyed. Limitation of the term of the bishop's office, consolidation of mission and publishing boards, greater freedom of initiative for the local pastor, are some of the measures which will be proposed at the next General Conference in May in Springfield, Mass.

McMaster University May Move
If Hamilton citizens will provide the buildings, McMaster University will move from Toronto to the neighboring city at the head of the lake. This was the decision of the Baptist Convention in Montreal which controls the University. The alternatives were a new group of buildings in North Toronto, federation with the Provincial University and remaining in the present straitened accommodation. McMaster has an enrollment of 569 students in Arts and 42 in Theology, a total increase of 29 over last year.

Visited in an Alien Land
Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodox and Anglicans have worshipped together in an Anglican service Sunday by Sunday, when the Book of Common Prayer was used. This took place in Trans-Jordan, a district east of Palestine proper, where the Christians are isolated and surrounded by a large Mohammedan population.

No Congress held in Constance
Switzerland, last summer, there was initiated a movement for the formation of an international Catholic Peace Council. The Congress accepted the suggestion of the French Catholic delegates that on the first Sunday of every month a peace communion be held at which the French Catholics will pray for the Germans and the German Catholics for the French.

Here and There in Christendom
A Thursday noonday service has been begun in the Church of the Resurrection, at Westminster Chapel, London. What Dr. Hutton would do for West London was carried on for many years at the City Temple in Holborn by Dr. Parker and R. J. Campbell.

To dismantle the eleven American forts on the Mexican border, with 8,000 soldiers in garrison, and erect border monuments of Lincoln and Juarez, to be paid for by the school children of the two countries, is the proposal of Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkield, of the Mexican Diocese of the Methodist Church.

The entire group of Congregational and Presbyterian churches in Cleveland, Ohio, have been merged under a plan of co-operative action. The Congregational Council at its recent meeting at Springfield, Mass., decided to endorse the plan and submit it for consideration to the Presbyterian General Assembly.

In Highlanders' Memorial Church, Glasgow, whose organ is the gift of Sir Harry Lauder and whose walls are embellished with the arms of 44 Highland clans, Rev. Frederick Macleod was set apart as deputy superintendent of the 40 Highland missions under the United Free Church of Scotland. There are upwards of 160,000 Gaelic-speaking people in Scotland, of whom more than 10,000 speak Gaelic only.

About 150 ministers, elders and members from different parts of the country, recently held a meeting in Edinburgh to protest against the proposed union of the United Free Church and the Established Church on the basis of the Church of Scotland Act and the Haldane Report.

The ministers of the Primitive Methodists, one of the three branches of the Methodist persuasion in England, number 1,118, of whom 300 stay beyond the three years' term in their circuits. The dominant and inspiring personality of this denomination is the well-known British theologian, Dr. Peake, principal of Hartley College. More than 80 per cent of the present ministry received their theological training from him.

Mr. Albert Matthews is the newly-elected president of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, with Rev. H. McDermid, of Stratford, and Professor P. S. Campbell, of Toronto, as vice-presidents.

Sayings of Christian Leaders
What a religion is able to do with the evil of war is a sure test, according to Mr. Fred B. Smith, of its right to claim our allegiance. Mr. Smith, who is secretary of the Federal Council of American Churches, affirms his faith in Christianity because "it has within it the power to make a world of brotherhood and goodwill. 'Show me that Mohammedanism can abolish war more swiftly and effectively than Christianity, and I will be a Mohammedan.'"

When nine hooded Knights of the Ku Klux Order interrupted a Methodist conference in Pennsylvania, Bishop McConnell declined their proffered gifts in an envelope and told them that though they had a perfect right to their convictions they "had no right to come into a religious meeting with masks on their faces, nor to interrupt a religious service."

Rev. Dr. R. J. Campbell writes in The Church of England newspaper that "Anglo-Catholicism is far from being the dominating power in the Church of England; in fact the tide is running like a millrace in a quite different direction." Dr. Campbell joined the Church of England a year or two ago after being the world-famous preacher of the City Temple, London. He is now ministering to a handful of particular laborers and their families in a small unadorned church in the South Downs. "For years," he says, "I have ministered in large churches, and generally to large assemblies. Now I begin to see that a small company in a small sanctuary may take one nearer to God."

Prof. Delaunay, of Germany, a noted New Testament scholar, who spent several months in England last summer lecturing to various organizations, has written Dr. Garvie expressing his grateful appreciation of the generous hospitality accorded him by the Christian churches of England.

Christian Leaders of Yesterday
The story of the wonderful work in Manchester, England, of Rev. S. Jackson is told by Rev. Dr. George H. Williams in his recently published life. When he died in 1851, the Prime Minister (Mr. Lloyd George) said: "All humanitarian causes are greatly impoverished by his death." John Wesley's dictum, "Your business is to win souls," Dr. Collier confessed, had always been to him an inspiration and a law.

On the site of the historic Harvey Lane Church in Leicester, England, from which "Carey the Cobbler" set forth in his missionary enterprise in India, a memorial hall is being erected. A great-grandson of the illustrious missionary, Rev. S. Pearce Carey, who laid one of the cornerstones, said that Carey's ministry in Leicester was marked by his care for even the poorest scavenger.

Lady Henry Somerset, the British co-worker in the temperance cause of Frances Willard, the great leader of the Women's Christian Temperance Union movement, is sympathetically portrayed in the just published Life and Letters. Besides her public work, Lady Somerset gave herself during her chequered and shadowed life to the redemption of inebriate women. In her later years she lived a life of religious seclusion.

"I beg your pardon for being late. It will never happen again." This was the earnest apology to the headmaster of Grace Reformed Church, Washington, by President Roosevelt on the only occasion of his failure to be punctual at his regular Sunday morning attendance at church.

In the Guildhall on October 17, there was unveiled a lifelike portrait of Sir George Williams, the founder of the Young Men's Christian Association, the Speaker of the House of Commons presiding over a gathering of one thousand guests. The dying watchword of the great chief was quoted on that occasion: "This is not the time to rest; this is the time to fight." Today the association has 2,000,000 members in 46 different countries, of whom 500,000 are in North America.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Cansass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. — 50,000 Women Answer —

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES.
That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.,
Cobourg, Ont. and Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

JEWETT SIX PAIGE BUILT

Try to Pass It On a Hill
Then You Will KNOW Jewett Six
Has More Power

LOTS of "boulevard beauties" are "duds" when asked to climb that's where real ability shows. And that's where the new Jewett Six is daily out-shining "light" sixes—and cars costing far more than Jewett.

The new Jewett Six outclasses all cars its size. It has a full 50 h.p., six-cylinder motor—Paige-built. Cylinders are 3¼ x 5 inches—which means 249 cubic inches of piston displacement. Check those figures against any "light" six. Form your own opinion of performance-possibilities of lower-powered cars.

Having such power, Jewett Six need not be skimped in an effort to attain performance. Nor is it 6-inch-deep frame, husky Paige-Timken axles, front and rear, all-steel universal joints, springs 80% of wheelbase. The new Jewett weighs 2905 pounds—from 200 to 400 pounds more than "light" six cars of the same size.

And with all this husky strength and weight—Jewett drives from 2 to 60 miles an hour in high; passes most any car on any hill; accelerates from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high. (Try that with any other car!)

Yet Jewett Six sedan costs only $2,485 f.o.b. Victoria, B.C. Oldtime motorists are amazed at its performance, stamina and astounding value. Drive it yourself. Call us up. Have a ride, any time. You'll agree that Jewett outperforms most any other car you've ever driven—particularly when compared with "light" sixes of less power, less weight, less strength and durability! (625)

Commercial Body Building

During the recent solar eclipse when approximately 37,000 motorists visited San Diego, a temporary gasoline famine was created, and by nightfall the price of gasoline had soared to $1 per gallon.

Because she came to work in her automobile, one of the scrubwomen at the Municipal Courts Building in Detroit, Mich., was discharged. It is the policy of the department to give cleaning work only to women in need.

DODGE BROTHERS ARE BUILDING TWO SEDANS

A. E. Humphries Explains Difference Between Business Sedan and Standard Sedan

To the casual, untrained observer, there is slight outward difference between the two new sedans of the Dodge Brothers' line recently announced. Closer study, however, discloses many interesting points of difference that distinguish the one as a business sedan and the other as the conventional standard sedan.

These differences were pointed out last week by Mr. A. E. Humphries, of the A. E. Humphries Motor Company, local Dodge Brothers dealer.

The business sedan comes finished entirely in baked black enamel and equipped with artillery-type wood wheels. The Type A sedan body is finished in blue with baked black hood and fenders. The business car is upholstered in Spanish blue leather, and is fitted in such a way that the entire rear seat and upholstery can be removed to transform the tonneau of the car into a utility car, giving about sixty cubic feet of carrying space there. The regular sedan is upholstered in mohair velvet.

Both cars are mounted on the same type Dodge Brothers chassis, and both differ from previous models in that they are three inches lower. Both bodies are of the all-steel type of construction.

CARING FOR SNUBBERS OF THE RECOIL TYPE

After Taking Them Up Once They Retain Adjustment Permanently—Tips Worth Knowing

Shock absorbers of the recoil arresting type, depending for their snubbing action upon the friction of a fabric belt wound around a drum are deservedly popular. The attention required by them is very slight, but they do need a little. The following instructions relate to the maintenance of the most largely used make of snubbers. After the first 600 miles of service, the belt becomes slightly stretched, and its coils settle together more compactly so that it is too long to afford full checking action. The belt should be released from the axle clamp, pulled out of its housing as far as it can be, then be allowed to spring back into its housing exactly two inches and be fastened there by a nail or wedge. The belt is then passed through the axle fitting, drawn taut, clamped securely, the extra length cut off, and the nail or wedge removed—the turned end of the clamp covering the end. This adjustment should be made without passengers, but with full equipment on the car. Lubricant in the form of graphite grease should be applied about every 5,000 miles to the following parts: The plunger, which slides within the coiled spring and the spring itself; the part of the base casting over which the sleeve moves and the rivets which fasten the belt to the base casting. No grease at all should be used on the belt itself. To do this work properly, the snubber should be entirely removed, held in a vise, by the base casting, and completely disassembled, care being taken to get the belt and all other parts back in their correct relations, but by merely removing the housing, less thorough greasing can be accomplished.

CLASHING OF GEARS IS NOW ELIMINATED

Packard Engineers Concealed the Idea of Rounding Gear Teeth—Meshing Must Be Perfect

Just a few years ago there was a grinding and clashing of tortured metal when the gear setting lever of an automobile was shifted into "first" at the start, or from one speed to another. It was accepted as necessary for a time.

Engineers of the Packard Motor Car Company, however, conceived the idea that if all the teeth of each gear were rounded off in some manner, each time a change in speed was required the gears would slip quietly into mesh with a force on the shifting lever no greater than that which could be applied by the unassisted little finger.

A new car was taken from the plant and given a long trip. After the return, Colonel J. G. Vincent and other engineers took the car all apart and studied it. They found that the shifting from one speed to another had chipped and ground off the sharp edges of the gear teeth, and that they had been rounded off until they resembled the top of the ordinary steam radiator used to heat a home.

An expert in the making of machines for the manufacturing of gears was called in to work with company engineers to devise a machine which would accomplish this rounding off operation before the gears were put into a car. The simplest kind of a looking little machine no bigger than a baby's chair, and with a cutter no larger than the tapered end of a lead pencil, has been taking the noise of clashing gears out of Packard cars ever since.

This cutter, through the employment of a "cam"—that important little discovery that has allowed men to make machines which are almost human in their operation, trims off the edges of a gear tooth just as easily and with somewhat the same motion that grandmother used to turn a spinning wheel. It passes about the round gear, trimming off one tooth after another until all are done, and when it finishes its job it signals one man, who takes care of a whole battery of machines, that it is ready to start work on a new gear wheel.

Probably no part of an automobile receives more strain or has a tougher job all around than one of the major gears, and the gears in the transmission are one of the which receive the big brunt of grief. The teeth of one gear wheel fit into those of another about as one's extended fingers fit between the spokes of a wheel. Spinning several hundred revolutions to the minute, this meshing of teeth must be perfect. If the teeth rub too hard one against the other, they soon grind each other to pieces, making happy the repair man and light the purse of the car owner.

Because of their job, therefore, gears must be tough. They must be ductile enough so that they will not chip, but as hard on their surfaces as a diamond. Modern methods of heat treating make them so. It is these same modern methods of heat treating, developed by old mother necessity in the automobile industry that have made possible hundreds of features that go to make up the longevity and performance of the modern quality automobile.

LARGE DEMAND FOR PAIGE CLOSED CARS

Many Orders Held Up Owing to Factory Being Unable to Supply Demand—Working at Capacity

The dearth of seven-passenger Paige 6-7 sedans and limousines, which held up delivery of these models for over a month in Victoria, has been filled and the factory announces that back orders will soon be taken care of.

The lack of these two types of bodies, according to Eve Brothers, local Paige-Jewett dealers, has necessitated holding up of many orders during the last few weeks. They state that the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company has informed them that while the November allotment of these types of bodies will not be as large as the local distributor needs, immediate deliveries can be cared for from it.

The coming of Winter, added to the ever-growing popularity of the Paige 6-7, increased the demands for these two larger closed types of automobiles to such an extent that the October production schedule fell far short of filling all of the orders turned into the factory, states Eve Brothers.

BIG GAIN IS MADE BY GENERAL MOTORS

General Motors in October sold 58,890 cars and trucks, compared with 49,021 in September, and further compared with 49,851 in October, 1922. These preliminary figures for October include the combined sales of the passenger and commercial car divisions of General Motors in the United States and Canada.

The number of cars and trucks sold by month this year, compared with last year, follow:

	1922	1923
Jan.	49,182	18,989
Feb.	55,477	29,959
Mar.	71,649	34,929

*This preliminary figure of sales includes Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile, passenger and commercial cars and G.M.C. Trucks.

In the last fifteen years the United States has spent between $15,000,000,000 and $20,000,000,000 for passenger automobiles and trucks. More than $5,000,000,000 have been expended for improved roads.

THE 1924 STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX FIVE-PASSENGER COUPE, $2,550

Announcing the Studebaker Light-Six 5-Passenger Coupe

Those who have wished for a six-cylinder enclosed car of high quality and moderate price, which would combine the sociability of the Coupe with the comfort of the Sedan, will find their desire answered in the new Studebaker Light-Six Five-Passenger Coupe.

The new Coupe possesses a host of refinements such as one would only expect to find on the highest priced cars. The body reflects the fine craftsmanship for which Studebaker body builders have long been noted.

And being mounted on the sturdy Light-Six chassis, which has so conclusively demonstrated its dependability in the hands of 150,000 owners, the reliability of the Light-Six Coupe can be accepted without question.

Backed by Studebaker's seventy-one years of manufacturing experience, the new Light-Six Five-Passenger Coupe is offered to the Canadian public with the belief that it represents a car admirably adapted to Canadian conditions.

The Light-Six Coupe seats five passengers in perfect comfort. The driver's seat and the auxiliary seat, one of the improved "bucket" type, and can be folded out of the way when not in use. The equipment includes: roof rack, running lights, bumper, eight-day clock, thief-proof transmission body, one-piece rain-proof windshield, with windshield cleaner, and glass-rod wiper; attractive, much-lamp; a sub-sonic horn; ventilator; and a luggage rack, at the rear, with a nickel-plated rail and aluminum panel guards.

MURPHY GETS BACK CHAMPIONSHIP POINTS

Contest Board of American Automobile Association Reverses First Decision—Record Now Clear

Jimmy Murphy, the noted American automobile race driver, will not be penalized in regard to championship points for leaving the United States while American championship contests were being held, according to the announcement of the decision of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association made by Joseph Mack, of Detroit, chairman of the board. Previous action of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, which is the official race control body in the United States, in taking away the championship points from Murphy for leaving the States, and thereby failing to participate in the championship events held at various tracks during the absence in Europe, was rescinded in response to numerous requests from other race drivers and speedway managers who were the most directly affected by Murphy's failure to enter various race events.

"Through the recent action of the Contest Board the race standing of the noted race driver will not be impaired, and his points will be reinstated to the original position held prior to his leaving this country for Europe," explained F. A. Crossmire, vice-chairman of the Contest Board.

A tool for lifting the rocker arms on overhead valve motors is one which will always find a welcome. Such a tool, handy for both the repair shop and the individual car owner, can easily be made by means of a round metal rod, bent and securely riveted in a handle of either hardwood or metal. By pulling up the end of the handle, the valve is pressed downward and the spring is compressed until the rear end of the rocker is clear of the push rod, which may then be removed. This tool will be found useful either for releasing the push rods or testing the valve action.

FORD CARAVAN WILL ARRIVE WEDNESDAY

Walter Revercomb Announces Local Ford Dealers Have Arrangements Complete for Demonstrations

Mr. Walter Revercomb, president of Revercomb Motors, Limited, announced yesterday afternoon that arrangements have been completed by the local Ford dealers for the arrival of the Ford Caravan next Wednesday. There will be a big parade in the morning, and in the afternoon, commencing at 1:30, there will be a showing demonstration at the city property, Elk Lake.

The Caravan has been accorded a royal welcome in every place where it has halted on the line of march, and the demonstrations provided have attracted crowds of spectators from wide areas surrounding the scene of operations. The Ford Caravan is really a traveling motor show, but it is more practical and helpful. Every vehicle in the Caravan has been selected because of its particular utility in this territory, and every piece of equipment used in the demonstrations has been chosen because it has proved particularly suited to local transportation, industrial and agricultural purposes.

The purpose of the tour is to give the people of Vancouver Island an opportunity to learn for themselves, first hand, just what can be accomplished in the general field of transportation, and in the field of power-farming by the use of Ford motor units. It has been claimed that there is a Ford motor unit for every transportation and every power need, and it is the intention of those in charge of the Caravan to back up this statement with actual demonstrations.

Leading the Caravan will be seen a Lincoln sedan. It is the latest addition to the Ford line, and is a glowing tribute to its designer, Henry M. Leland. The balance of the Caravan will consist of Fordson tractor, Wehr road grader and maintainer, Ford truck, equipped with Rockwell axle, Oliver plows and cultivators, Ford touring car, Ford runabout, Ford light delivery, Ford coupe and Ford sedan.

OVERLAND TO FEATURE NEW CHAMPION MODEL

New Car Will Probably Prove the Most Interesting of Company's Exhibit at Motor Shows

By reason of its being the latest creation of the Willis-Overland automobile factory and the manifold uses to which this versatile car may be put, making it the most interesting contribution that has been made to motor vehicle transportation this year, the Overland Champion will probably prove the most interesting exhibit at automobile shows throughout the country this season.

In producing the new Overland Champion, which took the country by storm since its announcement early in October, Willis-Overland again succeeded in actually introducing to the public something radically novel and fresh, a type of motor car that many people have longed and hoped for. It is probably the most useful car ever placed on the market, and its early showings have vindicated the expectation of an unusually large demand by all classes. It fills a long-felt want among traveling salesmen, farmers, professional and business men and families. Like the Willis-Knight coupe-sedan, the Champion has doors both front and rear.

Front and rear seats can be adjusted forward or back to provide absolute ease and comfort for tall and short people, three distinct positions being available which give two inches of adjustability on each seat.

Another uncommon characteristic of the Champion is that both seats and upholstery can be entirely removed and made up into a luxurious bed right in the car. This in itself will be an outstanding boon to motor campers.

Another remarkable feature of this versatile car is the arrangement whereby the rear seat and upholstery can be taken out, providing 50 feet of clear space for the salesman's sample case, trunk, luggage, etc.; the farmer's tools, bags of grain, seed, groceries, supplies, truck and whatnot; while the camper will rejoice in the available room for camping duffie and other equipment that is necessary for the proper enjoyment of the outdoors.

This car, with its smart appearance and obvious forms of utility, is finished inside with Spanish long-grained upholstery that is washable. The body is of steel, clad on the well-known triplex springs that create exceptionally comfortable riding.

MOTOR NOTES

Jameson Motors, Ltd., received word last week that the Studebaker Corporation has announced an entirely new car, a custom-built touring car on the light six chassis. This car is strictly a stock factory product, and embodies all of the features of the popular sport touring type. The car is finished in Brewster green and is fitted with haki top and curtains. It is equipped with disc wheels and a spare tire mounted in the rear of the car. Bumpers, motor meter and other necessary items are included as factory equipment.

"Orders are pouring into the Olds Motor Works at Okama at a terrific rate, and the factory is not yet in position to fill them." This is the way Mr. Stan Wallis, of the Consolidated Motor (Victoria) Co. Ltd., recently appointed Oldsmobile distributor, tells of conditions in the East. The new six is taking Eastern Canada by storm, and Mr. Wallis does not expect

AUTOMOBILE GOES 27 MILES ON AIR

A simple, self-regulating device that mixes the proper amount of air with gasoline at the proper time has been invented by J. A. Stransky, 108 Third Street, Pukwana, South Dakota. An automobile equipped with this wonderful device went 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline that was formerly making only 10. It can be installed by anyone in five minutes. Mr. Stransky wants agents and is willing to send a sample at his own risk. Write him today. (Adv.)

Every car owner now can afford one

Experienced drivers consider the Exide the economical battery because it lasts so long. Yet some men, while recognizing Exide as the standard, have held off from buying because of the higher first cost.

Now, every car owner can afford one. The experienced driver for the same money can get, in the XX type, an even better Exide, while the owner who is compelled to consider the first cost, can now secure the old standard XC type at a price within his reach.

Long service and short repair bills make the last cost of either type—XC or XX—so low that it will astonish you.

Any reliable Battery Dealer can now sell you an Exide. Insist on having one. If he has none in stock he can get one over night from a nearby distributor.

What Cadillac brought to General Motors

SAID the Royal Automobile Club of London: "We will award the Dewar Trophy each year to the motor car demonstrating the greatest advance in the industry."

In 1909 three Cadillacs were taken from the dealer's storehouse in London to compete against the best that Europe could produce.

They were torn apart; the parts were tossed into a heap; it was impossible to tell from which of the cars any given part had come.

Then an amazing thing occurred. Mechanics, with only the most ordinary tools, stepped up to the pile, reassembled the three Cadillacs and sent them whirling around the track.

Not one of the foreign cars could be rebuilt without filing and hand fitting. Cadillac had revealed to the world an unsuspected achievement—perfect interchangeability of parts.

In 1912 Cadillac built the first car with a complete electrical system of cranking, lighting and ignition which won the trophy a second time.

By a long succession of similar triumphs, the leadership of Cadillac was gained. That leadership it kept, and brought to General Motors.

A division of Cadillac Motor Car Company has been established with General Motors of Canada, Limited, Ontario, to produce Cadillac cars in Canada.

The same standard of quality which has established Cadillac as the leading fine car will be scrupulously maintained in the Canadian product as the major units of the Canadian Cadillac will be built in the Detroit Cadillac factories where "craftsmanship is a creed, and accuracy a law."

B.C. WAS ALMOST COLONY OF SPAIN

Viceroy of Mexico Couldn't Believe Juan de Fuca's Lurid Description of This Part of the World. So It Remained for Others to Establish Civilization Here—British Columbia and Victoria Are Celebrating Birthdays Tomorrow

SIXTY-FIVE years ago tomorrow the Colony of British Columbia had its beginning.

If the old seaman, Juan de Fuca, had been trusted by his contemporaries, if he had been listened to and believed by the Viceroy of Mexico who sent him on a voyage of discovery in the northwest Pacific waters in 1592, Vancouver Island might never have been a British Crown Colony, and the anniversary which Victoria is celebrating tomorrow would never have had occasion for remembrance.

Juan de Fuca, a Greek pilot whose real name was Apollonio Valeriano, was a native of Cephalonia, and in the year 1592, it is recorded in "Purchas, his Pilgrimage" (published in 1625), the Viceroy of Mexico sent him on a voyage of discovery. De Fuca reached the northern coast of the great continent, pursuing a northerly direction until he came to the latitude of 47 degrees.

"There finding that a broad inlet treaded to the eastward between the latitudes of 47 degrees and 48 degrees, he called up it for more than twenty days." He found many islands in this inland navigation, and noted and charted many things which have since been identified. But for some reason the rugged old seaman seems to have been doubted by his superiors, and his pretensions in regard to the exploration of these waters were scoffed at by geographers of his own time. So although in due course his questing spirit had its reward in the perpetuation of his name in the Straits of Juan de Fuca, there was no discoverer's claim made in connection with that exploration of three hundred and thirty-one years ago.

English Navigators

Captain Vancouver sailed up the same strait with his ships, the Discovery and Chatham, in April, 1802. Chief Factor James Douglas, afterwards Governor Sir James Douglas, K.C.B., in the Summer of 1841 made a preliminary examination of the southern shore of Vancouver Island with a view to selecting a suitable site for a new Hudson's Bay Company post on the Pacific. Captain McNeill, having made a preliminary examination in the Beaver in the Summer of 1842, Sir James first landed from the Beaver at Clover Point, and from Fort Simpson, Dr. Kennedy being left in his place, and Chief Trader Charles Ross from Fort McLoughlin. The site was known to the Indians as Camosun or Camosack, this being their way of expressing the idea of "trading water," which anyone can hear today by standing on the Gorge Bridge at the turn of the tide. However, the post was called Fort Albert just at the beginning. This name was soon changed to Fort Victoria, in respect to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, who had succeeded to the British Crown in 1837. The name Victoria was not adopted until 1862, when the straits were laid out.

The first officer in charge of the fort was Mr. Charles Ross. Captain Walbran continues in his excellent little history "The natives of the surrounding country, known as the Songhees tribe, then resided at what is now known as Cadboro Bay, but seeing the advantage of being near the white men they removed from there the party walked along the shore to the hill which is now known as Beacon Hill, and continued from there as far as the Gorge. That day they selected the site of the fort which was the foundation of the existing city of Victoria.

On June 4, 1842, the building of the fort commenced, with the Hudson's Bay Company's forces from the recently abandoned northern posts of Fort Durham and Fort McLoughlin (now known as Beaufort). Fifty men and three officers were brought down by the Beaver and the Cadboro. Captain John T. Walbran, in his "British Columbia Coast Names," gives a brief history of the events which followed.

Thomas Lowe was brought from Fort Durham, Roderick Finlayson sheik old home to the vicinity of the fort.

British Columbia
When Vancouver Island was made a colony in 1849 the mainland of Columbia still remained an Indian Territory subject to the Hudson's Bay Company's authority. On August 20, 1850, its name was changed to British Columbia, and it was made subject to an Imperial Act for its government under that name, with its boundaries established, for the mainland, just as they stand today.

Mr. Douglas was made Governor of the new Colony of British Columbia, and was empowered by order of the Queen-in-Council under date of September 2, 1858, to make provision for the administration of justice, and "to make such laws, institutions and ordinances as might be necessary for the peace, order and good government of Her Majesty's subjects and others therein."

Revoke Grant

It was on November 3, 1858, that the Crown Grant of May 3, 1858, to the Hudson's Bay Company "for exclusive trading with Indians" was revoked.

On November 19, 1858, the Crown Colony of British Columbia celebrated its legislative birthday.

Gosnell's Year Book records the fact as follows:
The event was signalled by Governor Douglas, accompanied by Mr. Justice Matthew Ballie Begbie, the new Judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, Charles Brew, the Police Magistrate, proceeding to Fort Langley, then the presumptive capital of the new Colony, and there in front of the Port buildings, though within the pallades, publicly proclaiming the Colony, and awarding in all the above officials for their several offices with much state and all due formalities. And so the legislative birthday of British Columbia was complete.

"Before the Colony was proclaimed, the Governor had fixed upon Langley as the capital, but Colonel Moody, R.E., opposed the selection of Langley as being on the wrong side of the river, and indefensible on military grounds, and suggested a more suitable site on the right bank, which had many things in its favor, being at the head of tide-water. This was first called Queensborough, but was finally changed by Queen Victoria to New Westminster."

"On the 19th of November, 1866, the union of the two separate colonies under the name of British Columbia was accomplished and proclaimed, and the capital changed from New Westminster to Victoria."

The city was incorporated in 1862. The old fort was finally demolished on November 24, 1864.

A tribute to the great administrative ability of Sir James Douglas is to be found in the granite obelisk erected in his honor in front of the Parliament Buildings here. The inscription reads:

"Erected by the people of British Columbia to the memory of Sir James Douglas, K.C.B., Governor and Commander in Chief, 1861-1864."

An extract from the judgment of the Supreme Court of British Columbia in the case of the Attorney-General v. Ludgate (1901) contains an unusual clause, which also, standing as it does in the preserved records of the Province, is another comment on the character of the Colony's first Governor.

"We are fortunate indeed in having, so far as the old Colony of British Columbia is concerned, the four Imperial Blue Books of 1859-62, which in the admirable despatches of Governor Douglas contain an account as interesting as it is exceptionally complete of the early administration of the affairs of that colony. And I trust it may not be out of place for me to say, after a repeated perusal of those despatches, that they bring home to one how well it was for the proper establishment of the infant colony under trying and peculiar circumstances, that there was placed at the head of its affairs so able an administrator as Governor Douglas."

FORBIDS PUBLICATION

MUNICH, Nov. 17.—Dr. von Kahr, the military dictator, today forbade publication of news of arrest of those concerned in the recent rebellion, their trials and sentences, or of the searching of private houses by the police. A protest was made by the Bavarian Association of Journalists.

FORM EXCHANGE HERE FOR CHARITY WORK

Social Service League Organizes Confidential Agency to Prevent Overlapping of Services

Through the efforts of the Social Service League of Victoria, a confidential exchange has been established in this city, the object of which is to prevent overlapping in charitable and benevolent work, and so to conserve the energy and funds of those organizations affiliating with it. Such an exchange is proving its value in Vancouver, and the following extract from a recent letter of the secretary there should be of interest:

"Enclosed you will find complete list of agencies using this exchange."

Booril makes you feel a new man

some of the regular exchange users themselves are surprised in many cases to learn that certain families about which they inquire are already recorded."

Millinery Meeting Proves Successful

METCHOSIN, Nov. 16.—Very successful was the first millinery class which was held at the residence of Mrs. M. M. Brown on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The teacher of millinery, Mrs. Frank Jordan, will attend every Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock prompt, when everybody interested is invited to join.

Further activities of the institute consist of a show to be held on Friday, December 14, at the Metchoshin Hall, in aid of a hospital bed which the organization will place at the service of the sick of the district who are unable to meet the large sums of money which treatment in hospital demands. The programme will consist of a new comedy sketch entitled, "Two in a Train," by A. E. Drinkwater, the artists being Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Ashe. Refreshments and a dance will follow.

Farewell Party Held In Honor of Nurse

CHEMINUS, Nov. 17.—Miss A. Wright, who has completed her two and one-half years' training at the local hospital, and who is now leaving for the Vancouver General Hospital to finish, was given a farewell party by Cheminus Review, Woman's Benefit Association, of which Miss Wright was the record keeper. During the evening Miss Wright was presented with a beautiful leather bag and fountain pen, with the best wishes of the Review, who are very sorry to lose her. Miss Wright has been very popular during her stay in Cheminus and the good wishes of everyone will follow her to her new sphere of work.

How to Keep a Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. W. E. Marston, Centerville, N. S., and Mrs. Pratt, 45 Gilson Ave., Runnymede, Toronto, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Peppin in the house, ready for use, to avoid many of the ills to which children are subject.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Peppin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with peppin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Laxative Syrup Peppin is mild and gentle action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Peppin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Laxative Syrup Peppin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or snuffle and you will have a healthy winter.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying

That "Kruschen" Feeling

The "Kruschen feeling" is a feeling of bounding vigour and enthusiasm, born of good health. That's the secret of it — just good health.

Consider these simple facts. For perfect health the body needs regular physical exercise in the open air. Yet this is just what most men and women cannot get. The nature of their daily duty prevents it.

Week-end golf or tennis or walking is the most they can get, and this is not enough. It is far better than no exercise at all, but still not nearly enough for vigorous health. The body vitally needs open-air exercise not only to form supple muscles but also to keep the internal organs working actively. Good health cannot be yours unless the liver and kidneys are doing their work thoroughly, extracting full value from the food you eat, eliminating all waste matter, keeping the blood-stream pure and healthy.

Now the liver and kidneys are especially sensitive to lack of open-air exercise. In ordinary conditions of modern life they become over-tired. Impurities get into the blood. Headaches, depression, lack of energy follow.

You need something to counteract these trying conditions, something to keep the liver and kidneys working actively. In a word, you need Kruschen Salts.

Put a pinch of Kruschen Salts in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea every morning — you can't taste them, but they do their work. They restore liver and kidneys to their proper state, clear away impurities that have been clogging your system, and send new, pure blood driving through your body. You become a new being, cheery, energetic, self-reliant. You are well, and you know it.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains daily use is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece" for three months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

These Goats Think They're Mary's Lamb

"Esther" and "Patsy," Jim Smart's Trick Goats, Which Follow Him and His Sister to School and Have Other Habits Unusual for Their Species.

GOATS PLAYMATES OF OAK BAY BOY

JIM SMART, aged fifteen, has learned that goats can appreciate the lighter side of life. That is why he can be seen on a Sunday, "all dressed up," making his way along Oak Bay streets in the company of several of these animals, which may rush ahead one moment to graze at the roadside and shortly afterwards may be seen battling for the possession of some rock, engrossed in the ancient game of "King of the Castle."

The Smart family, resident on Bowker Avenue and centred around Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smart, took up goats seriously when Jim's baby brother, David, was in poor health and it was felt that goats' milk might bring improvement. It was then that the lighter side of keeping goats was uncovered.

It was found that goats were good walking companions. When Jim Smart goes walking to Uplands and back on a Sunday he attracts a great deal of attention. Motorists stop their cars to watch the unique cavalcade, and children run up to pet the goats. The animals refuse to walk decorously, even on Sunday. They gambol about like dogs. Finding a convenient rock, one will mount it and another will seek to dislodge him. It is by constantly butting, the assailant succeeds in defeating "The King," he himself mounts to the throne for a short-lived triumph.

Play With the Children

The goats play with the children, standing up on their hind legs against them, nosing in their laps, or rolling on the ground under the impetus of little hands.

Esther was born a year ago last Easter. She has been successfully used to draw a "Buster Brown" cart, responding to the tug of the reins and the commands of her driver. Efforts to hitch another goat in with her failed owing to lack of co-operation on the part of the white-haired partner. Jim Smart, who owns Esther and Patsy, the latter a three-year-old, says that the old-fashioned accelerator in the form of a carrot held in front of the goat on the end of a stick, is efficacious but that the trouble comes when the carrot is withdrawn, the goat turning suddenly after it and upsetting the wagon.

Even Play Games

The goats have learned to play "King of the Castle" on Jim's back, when the boy is down on his hands and knees.

Beas is biased in favor of females. She was looked after by a lady previous to joining the Smarts, and now refuses to touch any lady although not hesitating to go after any male who might feel disposed to have a game. Jean, aged five, and June, aged two, comprise the other members of the goat herd. Patsy died recently after a sickly life. Jean and Patsy are owned by Jim's brother John, who is absent on the prairies. Jim looks after the goats, doing the milking and so forth. He has never owned a dog, but finds his present pets quite satisfactory.

PRIZES PRESENTED TO POTATO WINNERS

Mr. C. Tice Receives Congratulations Upon the Success Which Attended Recent Fair

At the banquet given last evening as a concluding function of the potato show the presentation of prizes won during the week was made by the Premier, Hon. John Oliver.

Great credit was given Mr. C. Tice, potato expert of the Department of Agriculture, for the success which attended the event. Occasion was taken before the conclusion of the evening by the Advisory Board of the Farmers' Institute to present him with a pair of gauntlets, and in view of the fact that it was his birthday also, a pair of gilded potatoes suitably mounted were given him.

Mr. Tice expressed his satisfaction with the fair, which exceeded that of the year before. He hoped for success by the Province at the coming Pacific Northwest show at Spokane.

The prizes presented were as follows:

To Mr. A. J. Walker, of Windermere, for the best from certified seed, winning $9 out of 100 points with Nettie Gem, shield presented by Mr. George M. Murray, of Country Lake, and sprayer presented by Mr. George Mitchell, of Victoria.

Prize of $20 gold piece for best exhibit from non-certified seed, won by Chas. Bros., Parksville.

Prize of $10 for best commercial display of any kind, won by Mr. A. J. Walker, of Windermere, with Wee MacGregor.

Advisory Board cup for district exhibit, won by Windermere and presented to Mr. R. R. Bruce.

Women's Institute prize of silver tea service, won by Gordon Head. Braekman & Koe cup for school exhibit, won by Strathcona School, Chilliwack.

Windermere cup for the highest aggregate score of Victoria Potato Association with a score of 1,828 and presented to Mr. Mitchell.

BANDITS MAKE BIG HAUL OF FINE FURS

New York Police Chief Issues Draught Orders to Cope With the Holiday Crime Wave

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—In order to marshal the greatest number of policemen to combat the pre-holiday crime wave here, Chief Inspector Lahey today ordered that, effective tonight:

- 1—All vacations are to be suspended.
- 2—Patrolmen will work seven days a week.
- 3—Lunch hours are to be abolished.
- 4—Captains and inspectors are to sleep in station houses and to spend their waking hours seeing that all their men give 100 per cent service.
- 5—Members of the force are to wear their uniforms whenever they appear on the street and are to be constantly on the watch for bandits.
- 6—Except for eight hours allotted for sleep, detectives are to be constantly on duty.
- 7—Uniformed members are to be requested to volunteer for any additional service and offer their privately-owned automobiles for patrol duty.
- 8—All uniformed men on clerical assignments, numbering about 400, are to do a few hours patrol duty in addition to their other work.

Issuance of these draught orders followed a daring $50,000 fur robbery early today when bandits buried ash cans through the windows and fled in an automobile with the window display; and the theft of a wagon load of silk from the city.

Meanwhile the police were concentrating their efforts on running down the two bandits who, last Wednesday, held up and shot to death two messengers of the West End Bank, cornered in a Brooklyn elevator station, and fled with $43,500.

SPECULATIVE SELLING SETS BACK STOCKS

Good Support Maintains Prices in Spite of Professional Actions on European Advances

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Stock prices received a moderate setback today's brief session on speculative selling, inspired by reports that Great Britain and Italy had broken with France on the question of reparations. Offerings were fairly well absorbed, Baldwin breaking 2 1/2 points, but the other recognized industrial leaders showing only fractional recessions on this day.

The recent turn of events in Europe has resulted in the withdrawal of lowering bids for stocks, with the result that some sharp recessions took place in the early dealings, when large blocks were pressed for sale by professional speculators for the decline.

Good buying support was not long in forthcoming, however, and early losses of one to three points were materially reduced.

Foreign exchanges were again weak, demand sterling, French franc and Dutch guilders all touching new lows for the year. Sterling broke more than 2 1/2 cents to 47.25, and the French franc eased to 5.20 cents. Guilders touched 36.94 cents, apparently confirming reports that German capital was migrating from Holland to the United States.

Clearing Houses Report
The weekly clearing house statement showed an increase of $378,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $7,318,000 in the reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve Bank, and $48,091,000 in net demand deposits.

Cash in own vaults decreased 24,328,000, and time deposits were $2,328,000 lower. Aggregate reserve totaled $28,842,000, leaving excess reserves of $28,727,490, an increase of $1,312,100 over the week before.

Holders of foreign government issues continued to offer them freely in today's brief period of trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, but recessions were not so large as on Friday. The French 5 1/2 in fact, advanced two points as compared with Friday's sharp drop of 5 1/2 points. French municipalities declined 1 to 2 1/2 points.

Lack of support influenced small recessions of active United States Government bonds, loans ranging from 1-32 to 5-32 of a point.

FLURRY IN EXCHANGE CONTINUES TO GROW

Speculative Selling of Foreign Currency and Transfers of Capital From London Aids Slump

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Heavy speculative selling of foreign currency and the transfer of capital from London to New York, largely through fear of further political and economic disturbances abroad, assisted greatly in the decline of the dollar market today. The dollar market today with the result that demand sterling dropped 3 1/2 cents to 47.25, another new record for the year. Other foreign currencies showed similar declines. The dollar market today with the result that demand sterling dropped 3 1/2 cents to 47.25, another new record for the year. Other foreign currencies showed similar declines.

The recent turn of events in Europe has resulted in the withdrawal of lowering bids for stocks, with the result that some sharp recessions took place in the early dealings, when large blocks were pressed for sale by professional speculators for the decline.

Good buying support was not long in forthcoming, however, and early losses of one to three points were materially reduced.

Foreign exchanges were again weak, demand sterling, French franc and Dutch guilders all touching new lows for the year. Sterling broke more than 2 1/2 cents to 47.25, and the French franc eased to 5.20 cents. Guilders touched 36.94 cents, apparently confirming reports that German capital was migrating from Holland to the United States.

Clearing Houses Report
The weekly clearing house statement showed an increase of $378,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $7,318,000 in the reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve Bank, and $48,091,000 in net demand deposits.

Cash in own vaults decreased 24,328,000, and time deposits were $2,328,000 lower. Aggregate reserve totaled $28,842,000, leaving excess reserves of $28,727,490, an increase of $1,312,100 over the week before.

Holders of foreign government issues continued to offer them freely in today's brief period of trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, but recessions were not so large as on Friday. The French 5 1/2 in fact, advanced two points as compared with Friday's sharp drop of 5 1/2 points. French municipalities declined 1 to 2 1/2 points.

Lack of support influenced small recessions of active United States Government bonds, loans ranging from 1-32 to 5-32 of a point.

DULL GRAIN MARKET REPORTED AT CHICAGO

Statistical Position of Wheat Remains Bearish—Cash Corn Holding Up, But Weak Generally

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—There was almost a total lack of interest in today's grain markets. The market was dull and uneventful. The wheat market was bearish, with prices declining. The corn market was holding up, but generally weak. The soybean market was also dull.

The recent turn of events in Europe has resulted in the withdrawal of lowering bids for stocks, with the result that some sharp recessions took place in the early dealings, when large blocks were pressed for sale by professional speculators for the decline.

Advance Report On Season's Seed Crop

OTTA, Nov. 17.—The 1923 seed crop is the subject of an advance report by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association based on crop registration and visible market supply of registered and extra Number 1 seed. Wheat, it is estimated, will be 24,014 bushels on 12,613 acres; oats, 34,240 bushels on 15,660 acres; barley, 17,025 bushels on 13,600 acres; and corn, 4,380 bushels on 13,600 acres.

This information, it is asserted, is based on individual inspection reports on the fields of 130 growers. The great bulk of this seed has been produced in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The recent turn of events in Europe has resulted in the withdrawal of lowering bids for stocks, with the result that some sharp recessions took place in the early dealings, when large blocks were pressed for sale by professional speculators for the decline.

Good buying support was not long in forthcoming, however, and early losses of one to three points were materially reduced.

Test This Superior Wall Material Before You Decide

6 Exclusive Advantages:

Genuine Beaver Wall Board is the only wall board made of VIRGIN SPRUCE FIBRE through and through. Our experience has proved it is the best and strongest material for wall board use. Millions of these floor, tough, strong, red light, spruce fibre, give to Beaver Wall Board its greatest toughness and durability.

Genuine Beaver Wall Board is a NATURAL INSULATOR. Due to the use of long, virgin spruce fibre, it is filled with millions and millions of microscopic "voids" or dead air pockets. And building engineers will tell you that "dead air" is one of the most powerful non-conductors of heat, cold and sound.

Genuine Beaver Wall Board is of 28 LAYER CONSTRUCTION. Laminated by practice as a means of overcoming warping and buckling. Beaver Wall Board is made up of 28 LAYERS of virgin spruce fibre, pressed and laminated into one perfect panel. This is another reason for its pronounced durability.

Genuine Beaver Wall Board is kiln-dried and seasoned before leaving the factory. This is another exclusive Beaver process.

Genuine Beaver Wall Board is rendered practically impervious to moisture or climatic change by our exclusive, patented RESALTYTE FORMULA. This treatment penetrates into the fibre and becomes part of it, thereby sealing both sides of each panel against moisture. It also effects an important saving in decorating costs.

Genuine Beaver Wall Board is especially calculated and primed to produce an Art Finish Surface. It offers an almost unlimited opportunity for beautiful decoration. No priming is necessary. Either side may be used.

YOU intend to fix up those shabby rooms with new walls and ceilings; to make an extra room in the attic or elsewhere; to line the garage; to finish your new home; to build an office or stock room at the plant; or to do a hundred jobs for which this quick, clean, economical, superior wall material is specially adapted.

Then send the coupon below at once for a sample of genuine Beaver Wall Board and test it at first hand before you proceed. "PERFECT LOVER" IS THEME OF SERMON

Rev. J. Richmond Craig, of Vancouver, to Occupy Centennial Pulpit Today and Tomorrow

By a special pulpit exchange between Centennial Church and the First Presbyterian Church in Vancouver, the local pulpit will be occupied at both services today by the Rev. J. Richmond Craig. The visitor is well and popularly known here as a result of several previous visits he has paid to Victoria.

One of the most original and dynamic personalities in the Canadian preaching fraternity, Mr. Craig has had a most varied experience. Having spent some time as a school teacher and a business man, upon his entrance into the ministry in Scotland he was sent to South America for a period of five years to investigate conditions among the native tribes there, considering the feasibility of establishing missions for them. On this extraordinary mission Mr. Craig was in intimate association with a number of famous explorers and engineers, including Seymour H. C. Hawtrey and Don Ernesto Hag.

Upon his return to Scotland, Mr. Craig was sent to Canada, and after a year in Alberta he came to British Columbia in 1909. Mr. Craig served three important missions at Stewart, Stave Falls and Coquitlam among miners and dam builders before he received his regular charge, Central Park Church, in Vancouver in 1914. Following this pastorate he was minister at Westminster Church, from which he was appointed to his present charge.

At the First Church in the Terminal City, Mr. Craig and his staff of five associates operate "The House of the Open Door," a community institutional service equal in importance and in the fruit of its social contribution to any institutional church programme on the continent. About 1,200 families are ministered to by its workers, receiving anything from a car fare to a suit of clothes. Last year more than a thousand free meals were served to the needy. Organized sport for both girls and boys is directed by competent workers, and the value of the church to its parish has grown to an immeasurable degree.

In the congregation to which Rev. Mr. Craig preaches on Sundays are found more than thirty nationalities, and, despite the fact that all the salaries for the work are paid from the General Assembly's funds, the liberality of the congregation has paid all expenses and sent $15,000 to Toronto.

Mr. Craig will preach this morning at 11 on "The Wedding Garment," and this evening at 7:30 on "The Perfect Lover." A general meeting will be held in the church this afternoon at 3 o'clock, which will also be addressed by the guest pastor. Mr. Craig's subject is "What's the Matter with B.C.?" In this general meeting the public at large will have ample opportunity to see this unique minister in action, as well as to hear the conclusions of his keen observation of some of the imminent problems of this Province. All services today are to be broadcast by the church radio station CFCL.

PSYCHOLOGY UNDER REVISION AT PRESENT

Dean Coleman, of University of British Columbia, Tells Something About "The New Psychology"

The whole subject of psychology is under revision at the present time, Dean Coleman, of the University of British Columbia, told the big audience which crowded to hear him in the auditorium of Victoria College on Friday evening. The Very Rev. Dean Quinlan presided, and introduced both the lecturer of the evening and his subject. In connection with the latter there were two extremes to be avoided, obscuritism and glibness. Between these two there was plenty to learn from the accredited experts of the subject. Psychology was a science.

"Psychology has entered the field of business. The politician of the day knows how to use it. He knows, for instance, that if he gets the newspaper to say often enough that his opponent is a double-dyed scoundrel, that the crowd will come in time to believe it," claimed Dean Quinlan. Dean Coleman admitted that psychology at the present time was very much in the making, and no one who knew the difficulties of the science would be rash enough to say what form it would take even ten years from now. The new psychology could speak for themselves, however, through the writings of certain men whose names had become identified with the movement. The new movements were to a certain extent the recrudescence of old movements. Aristotle, for instance, was the father of much that was considered modern, and the student in elementary psychology still tried the old Aristotelian experiment of feeling marble with the fingers crossed, to demonstrate the confusion of his senses. John Locke, "the first and perhaps the greatest of English psychologists," was also quoted in the course of the evening.

The lecturer touched on the tenets of some of the modern schools, referring first to some of the tests in reaction time and mental measurements carried out in connection with experimental psychology.

"In the new psychology emphasis is placed on the great part which the subconscious mind occupies," said Dean Coleman. The human mind resembled an iceberg, seven-eighths lying beneath the surface. The behaviourists were defined as one of the schools in the new psychology. There was the school which dealt with the psychology of instinct, and there was social psychology. Professor John D. Watson, of John Hopkins University, represented the extreme of the behaviourist school, although Professor William McDougall, of Harvard, claimed that he had invented the term "behaviourist." It was the fashionable thing today to have complexes, although this was really a new name for an old thing. Jung and Freud had dealt at length with complexes, but of the kind which came under mental abnormality.

"There are some psychologists who think of practically all mankind as subjects for hospital, who think of the world as 'queer,'" said the speaker. This was a dangerous attitude.

A vote of thanks to Dean Coleman was passed at the close of his lecture.
